Union to Decide Again Whether Strike Ended

Rambler Production Resumes in Spite Of New Question

KENOSHA (AP)—The United Auto Workers Local 72 returned to members Tuesday the question of deciding whether a 20-day strike against American Motors Corp. had ended officially.

While the firm resumed its production of 1966 Rambler automobiles, the executive board of the local announced a final decision on the legality of the settlement vote would be made Sept. 24. An official said the decision would be placed in the hands of the members.

There was no elaboration on whether this meant another vote would be conducted on the question of upholding the original 2,554-1,522 ratification vote Saturday.

Complaint Rejected

The board had ruled earlier the settlement would stand. It rejected a formal complaint filed by 50 members who charged multiple voting and other balloting irregularities in the original tabulations.

Nearly 17,000 workers were back on the job at assembly plants here and the American Motors body plant in Milwaukee Tuesday as cars began rolling off the lines again.

A National Labor Relations Board spokesman said the federal agency had no jurisdiction in a related protest seeking to overturn the vote ending the record 20-day strike. The Wisconsin Employment Relations Board issued the same reply.

Union steward Elmer Beatty had sent protests to the NLRB in Washington, the WERB in Madison and the UAW headquarters in Detroit.

None Received

A spokesman for regional NLRB director George Squillacote in Milwaukee said no formal complaint had been received yet and added the NLRB had no authority to intervene anyway.

AMC, with production at full force again, is battling to overcome effects of the three-week shutdown which left its supply of 1966 models far short of the number needed for nationwide dealer showing Oct. 7.

Pope Issues Document Establishing New Unit

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI issued an official document today setting up a worldwide synod of bishops and spelling out how it will help him govern the Roman Catholic Church.

The document, a "Motu Proprio" signed by the pontiff, was read by Paolo Cardinal Marella to the approximately 2,500 prelates in St. Peter's at their first working meeting of the fourth and final session of the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

The pope announced Tuesday that he would create the synod, and he came into the basilica this morning to hear the document read by the archpriest of St. Peter's.

Answer's Need

The document began by stating that the synod answers the Pope's need for a central organization to bring him into closer contact with bishops around the world.

The official name of the body will be "Synod of the Bishops."

Voters Brave Foul Weather To Cast Mandate Requiring Four City Posts be Elective

BY WILLIAM J. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Appleton voters turned out 11,472 strong in the rain and cold Tuesday, defeating by better than 2 to 1 referendum which would have made four city offices appointive.

The electorate gave the city council a mandate to keep the post of city clerk, part-time city attorney, treasurer and assessor elective.

There was no doubt as to the outcome after early returns started to come into the city clerk's office shortly after the polls closed at 8 p.m.

"No" votes appeared across the ballot for each of the four questions.

The outcome reflected political ramifications and erased the previous action of the council which had adopted the charter ordinances.

Vote Totals

The vote totals for each of the four positions, excluding a possible downward adjustment of 100 votes in the city attorney tabulation, were as follows:

—City clerk: No, 7,995; Yes, 3,407.
—Attorney: No, 8,007; Yes, 3,367.
—Treasurer: No, 7,938; Yes, 3,355.
—Assessor: No, 7,913; Yes, 3,357.

City Clerk Elden Broholm and other election officials indicated there was a possibility one of the voting machines in the 3rd Ward may have registered an extra 100 "no" votes in the city attorney column. This would cut that total to 7,907.

The machine correctly showed 455 persons cast ballots but the 3rd Ward totals of 71 Yes and 462 No votes did not jibe. However, in the case of the other three offices the vote totals ran 76-375, 73-370 and 74-371.

Absentee Ballots

Allied Troops Deployed to Set Up Base

Thousands in Area North of Saigon Held by Guerrillas

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Thousands of U.S. paratroopers and Vietnamese soldiers fanned out today in Viet Cong territory about 30 miles north of Saigon, a U.S. spokesman said.

Elements of the U.S. Army's 173rd Brigade are taking part in the joint operation launched Tuesday in an effort to establish a base for U.S. forces in an area long under guerrilla control.

The spokesman said no major contact had been made but that the allied forces drew sporadic sniper fire. He reported no U.S. casualties but said Australian and New Zealand troops on the operation took light losses.

The area being cleared was near the district town of Ben Cat, 30 miles north of Saigon in Binh Duong Province.

With Vietnamese

U.S. advisers parachuted Tuesday with 1,100 Vietnamese just northeast of Ben Cat in one phase of the operation. In another part, U.S. paratroopers and New Zealand and Australian contingents reached Ben Cat by convoy along Highway 13 on which the Viet Cong have pulled many bloody ambushes.

One truck in the convoy blew up after striking a mine and inflicted the casualties on the New Zealanders.

The parachute jump was made in driving rain and was the first by Vietnamese paratroopers since last year.

In the air war, another flight of B-52 bombers from Guam hit a suspected Viet Cong installation in Zone D 30 miles northeast of Saigon in Bien Hoa Province. It was the 24th announced raid by the big planes of the U.S. Strategic Air Command.

A U.S. Navy plane on a strike in South Viet Nam crashed at sea 145 miles southwest of Saigon, and the pilot was presumed dead.

Seventeen Americans were killed in action during the week ending Sept. 11, a military spokesman said. Fifty-eight others were wounded.

Small U.S. combat units made contact 60 times with guerrillas in the same period, triple the number of the previous week.

Twenty-one Viet Cong were reported killed in four scattered clashes with Vietnamese units.

Elements of the U.S. Army's 101st Airborne Division reported wounding three Viet Cong and seizing 26 suspects in a two-day operation north of An Khe in the central highlands. No American losses were reported.

Castro Calls Himself 'A Man of Culture'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Fidel Castro has been described as "a man of culture who keeps himself posted on all the world's problems and puts them in focus with great vision."

The appraisal was attributed by Havana radio to Mexico's Ambassador Fernando Pamanes Escobedo, a Mexican-Cuba friendship week interview with the Havana paper Revolution.

"We've got to get the Negro community to be motivated," he said in urging employers to alert Negroes to job opportunities.

Fagan and Rowland, appointed to the three-member commission by Republican Gov. Warren P. Knowles, were presiding at their first hearing.

Fagan said discrimination in the North was more subtle than in the South but "just as deadly."

Washington Studies Surprise Peace Move Of Pakistani Official

Ayub Says U. S. Could Have Ended Kashmir Woe, Prevented War, in 1962

AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP)—Johnson administration officials studied a surprising move today by Pakistan President Ayub Khan as offering a possible new opening for diplomacy to end the fighting between Pakistan and India.

Initially, U.S. policy makers could not be sure whether Ayub was intent upon creating such an opening or whether he was merely trying to put blame on the United States for the conflict over Kashmir.

Definite Role

Ayub told newsmen "The United States can play a very definite role by telling India and Pakistan she will not stand for this struggle. She could have brought it (a solution of the Kashmir dispute) about in 1962 and could have brought it about today."

Only a few hours earlier, Ayub's foreign minister, Z. A. Bhutto, had said in a speech in Pakistan that his nation was totally committed to the struggle with India. As he put it: "We have made our final choice—victory or disaster."

Coincident with the Ayub and Rhutto developments, U.N. Secretary-General U Thant was winding up his cease-fire efforts in India and Pakistan and returning directly to New York.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, responding to a surprising move by President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan, made a new appeal today for Pakistan and India to cooperate with the United Nations in the search for an end to their conflict.

The White House said Johnson is willing to do everything he can to promote peace but that he "very strongly hopes" that U.N. Secretary-General U Thant will be given every opportunity to resolve the problem of the undeclared war over Kashmir.

This came as a surprise to U.S. policy makers who had understood that Thant would extend his stay in the Asian subcontinent.

Ayub's statement that his government was willing to negotiate conditions for a plebiscite in Kashmir could be interpreted as conciliatory; a parallel comment that Pakistan would not agree to return to the old cease-fire line in Kashmir seemed on the surface to be a barrier against ending hostilities.

The United States has been pleading with both sides in public statements and private contacts since the fighting started. Peace pleas have also been feared by the Soviet Union, Britain and other powers except Red China which has strongly supported Pakistan against India and sought to inflame the war.

The United States is a major supplier of economic aid to both India and Pakistan. It has already cut off military shipments to both countries and could, at least in theory, take such action in respect to economic assistance. This, however, the President has been reluctant to do.

Major Fear

One reason is that he does not wish to put any pressure on either country which would make conditions worse while possibly failing to end the conflict. A major U.S. fear has been that the passions of the war would stir up communal violence between Hindus and Moslems living as neighbors throughout the subcontinent. Worsening economic conditions could sharpen this danger.

Another major consideration by Johnson has been to keep full U.S. support behind the search for a cease-fire through the United Nations and Thant's mission to New Delhi and Rawalpindi.

Johnson Farm Bill Clears Senate, Heads for Conference

WASHINGTON (AP)—House and Senate managers of the Johnson administration's farm bill predicted today that a final compromise on the two versions of the legislation will be worked out satisfactorily.

The Senate cleared the four-year measure Tuesday by a 72-22 vote after revising it in four days of floor debate to conform more closely to the administration's views.

The final version won support of 56 Democrats and 16 Republicans while 14 Republicans and 8 Democrats voted against it.

"The bill had cleared the House 221 to 172 on Aug. 19. Opponents and backers of the Senate and House bills have never agreed on specific costs of the multibillion-dollar measures.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., and Rep. Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C., who will lead the respective Senate and House delegations in the conference measure, said they were confident the differences could be settled without great difficulty.

The wheat provisions lead the list of major differences in the two versions. There also are significant variances on cotton, dairy and rice sections.

Senate sponsors said they believe the bill as finally passed in their branch is balanced as carefully as possible between boosting farmers' income and restricting production so that present surpluses can be cut back.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., called it the "finest farm program we have seen in years." He said the Senate bill "reverses the downward trend of net farm income and sets a new course toward parity," particularly on wheat.

Too Costly

Agriculture Department spokesmen said the Senate bill is close to administration thinking except that it is much too costly.

Indications were the administration would try to cut back on the cost of the wheat and cotton programs in the conference.

The Senate wheat provisions would give growers an overall return of $1.90 a bushel compared with $1.81 in the House bill and $1.69 under the 1965 program.

This would cost $400 million a year more than the administration proposal.

Key Feature

A key feature of the bill is the new cotton program fixing price support loans at about the world market price of 21 cents a pound and boosting the income of the grower with direct subsidy payments amounting to 9 or more cents a pound.

The two versions are close together on this program. However, Ellender got a last-minute amendment into the measure to boost income of cotton growers.

Damage, Injuries

Violent Weather Hits Peoria, Ill., Midwest

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tornadoes and severe thunderstorms hammered wide areas in the nation's midsection Tuesday night, with violent weather in Peoria, Ill., injuring at least 28 persons and causing property damage estimated at $1 million.

The severe storms battered sections of central and northern Illinois, northern and central Indiana and parts of Iowa, Missouri and lower Michigan.

The storm described by the Peoria Weather Bureau as a "possible tornado," virtually destroyed the Norwood Elementary School near Peoria, a city of more than 100,000. Forty-three persons, including 25 pupils, huddled in the basement as the storm struck. No one was hurt. Damage was estimated at $500,000.

Coke Plant

The storm flattened the Coca-Cola Bottling Co. plant, caused an estimated $250,000 damage to the Union Stockyards and heavy damage to a Hiram Walker plant. Several homes were damaged, trees were uprooted and power and telephone service was disrupted.

At Bellevue, near Peoria, the damaging winds unroofed the Bellevue Nursing Home and 60 persons were evacuated. Two persons were injured near Watseka, Ill.

In Indiana tornadoes were reported at Tippecanoe, Boone, Clinton, Howard and Johnson counties. No injuries were reported and property damage was light. Gusty winds and heavy rain struck Lafayette and one person suffered a severe electrical shock when he walked into the flooded basement of his home. Several intersections were flooded to a depth of four feet. More than 4½ inches of rain drenched the city in six hours.

Other Storms

Severe wind storms also swept the Battle Creek, Mich., area and in central and southwestern Missouri.

Record breaking heat marks were reported Tuesday in parts of Oklahoma and Texas, with 107 at Wichita Falls, Tex., 103 at Tulsa and 102 at Oklahoma City, Okla.

Snow fell early today at Cut Bank, Mont., as the mercury dropped to freezing. The cold air extended across northern border states. The early morning high reading was 90 at Thermal, in the California desert.

Their Father Rescued these children was struck by a tornado Tuesday. Widened from their Peoria, Ill., home after it spread damage resulted. (AP Wirephoto)

Westmoreland Expected to Take Offensive

Peak of Buildup Has Been Reached At Dry Season

WASHINGTON (AP) — High U.S. military officials are looking for Gen. William C. Westmoreland to seize the initiative from the Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

There are two main factors in top level hopes for an increasing offensive.

1. A buildup of U.S. fighting forces in Viet Nam shortly will reach about 127,000 men with more American troops expected to follow.

2. The dry season is approaching. It will permit all out air operations after a months long lull in operations that hampered air operations.

More Resources

Arrival of the 16,000-man 1st Cavalry Division with its fleet of 428 helicopters gives Westmoreland greatly increased resources for maneuver. He is the top U.S. commander in Viet Nam.

With the heavily strengthened combat forces available to him, Westmoreland can now act rather than react, one high ranking official said.

He mentioned a big Marine operation in the Chu Lai area last month and added, "You can expect that type of thing to increase."

At Chu Lai officials said the Marines beat the Viet Cong to the draw and averted an impending Communist attack in force.

Body Count

The announced body count of Viet Cong dead topped 600. But U.S. military officials now believe that perhaps twice that many of the enemy were killed at Chu Lai. Many Viet Cong apparently were sealed up by explosion in tunnels and caves, officials said.

Top military officials claimed U.S. strategy in Viet Nam.

Chiefly, they said it calls for American fighting units to strike out from secure bases and coastal enclaves to fix and destroy Communist units where they can be found. Vital to such far ranging operations is improving intelligence information.

The gradual pacification of widening areas is regarded as a byproduct of efforts to insure security of U.S. bases by sending patrols farther and farther beyond base perimeters.

At the Viet Cong are cleared from such areas it is hoped the Vietnamese army can handle the job of pacification.

Carry Brutal

In the delta where the Communists have suffered some significant reverses recently, the U.S. Vietnamese troops will continue to carry the brunt of the fighting.

U.S. military authorities cited the gains in the delta in part as what they say is outstanding leadership and aggressiveness shown by South Vietnamese officers in that theater which used to be a Viet Cong happy hunting ground.

There is no intention to send U.S. combat units into the delta but U.S. planners aim to intensify air strikes there in support of the Vietnamese.

Concern over possible command friction between U.S. and Vietnamese officers in the field apparently has subsided.

U.S. officers still command U.S. forces in any joint operations and Vietnamese command lead their own men. But of late here report a number of incidents in which Vietnamese commanders voluntarily have placed themselves under U.S. command.

City Clerk Elden Broehm and City Attorney Frederick Froehlich opposed the proposed change but Treasurer Ray Feuerstein and Assessor John Pierre said they would abide by the decision of the voters and assumed a neutral position.

Mayor Clarence Mitchell and a majority of aldermen endorsed a "yes" vote.

The across-the-board vote totals for each office showed no significant fluctuation.

One obvious conclusion was that a good many of Appleton voters who turned back the charter change were willing to brave bad weather to do it. A total of 11,472 of the 22,250 registered voters went to the polls—51.5 per cent of the eligible electors.

April Election

In last April's election when half the city's aldermanic and county supervisory positions were filled and a new state supreme court justice elected there were 9,243 votes—41 per cent—cast.

While the outcome of Tuesday's election can be interpreted as a vote of confidence for the present officeholders and a rebuke of the administration it may have cleared the air for only a few months.

All city offices and half the council and county board positions will be filled in the regular spring election April 5. There also is a possibility of a primary before then.

The Committee for Election by Voters of Appleton officials headed by Sarto Balliet spearheaded the drive for a no vote. On the opposite side were the Appleton Taxpayers Association, League of Women Voters and Coordinating Committee for Better Government.

Against Change

Several individuals also worked for and against the charter change. Aligned with the "no" group were previously unsuccessful office seekers including some who are considering running again next spring having already taken an anti Mayor Mitchell stand.

The "No" vote carried all 20 wards, scoring heavy gains except in the 10th and 17th wards. However in some of the larger wards the voters spurned the referendum by as much as 4 to 1.

First returns received at the clerk's office were from the 18th Ward at 8:21 p.m., establishing the marginal pattern for the remainder of the vote tabulations. The 2nd Ward returns were received at 8:22 p.m.

Lights Out

At 8:24 p.m. while the votes were being tabulated a power failure caused by the storm knocked out the lights for about a minute and sent Broehm and election workers scurrying for candles.

The election results were officially wrapped up by 9:15 p.m. The no's had captured 70 per cent of the total vote.

Tonight the council convenes as a board of canvassers as part of its regular meeting to officially certify the results.

One problem and it will only be a technical one for record purposes is how to handle the miscalculation in the 3rd Ward city attorney vote. It has been established that no human error was involved.

Village Justice Fines Two Men After Accidents

LITTLE CHUTE—Two men pleaded guilty to traffic violations resulting in accidents when arraigned before Raymond Sanders, municipal justice Monday night.

Thomas Kools, 33, 225 S. Buchanan St., Little Chute was fined $75 for hit and run driving. He was arrested after the vehicle he was driving broke off a highway marker sign.

Sept. 7 Police found traces of paint from his car at the scene of the mishap and noted the damaged vehicle parked in his lot.

David Hietpas, 18, 521 E. Lincoln Ave., Little Chute was fined $15 for failure to yield right of way. He was arrested Aug. 31 after an accident at Main and Madison Streets.

If a Mouse Looked Straight Up this is the view it would have of a most unusual cat in Miami belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Max Dangel. Sporting 10 toes on each of its four paws the cat has been appropriately named "Toe Toe." Its mother had six toes on each foot. Five is considered catly. (AP Wirephoto)

Tricky Cut To Avoid Tax

LANSING Mich. (AP) — The owner of a Great Lakes watercraft must pay a $5 Michigan plate tax if the craft is 16 feet or longer.
One boat owner didn't want to pay.
Consequently the unidentified owner wrote Secretary of State James Haie. "I have removed one inch from the bow of the boat. The boat should now be listed as 15 feet 11 inches."

Maine Plans Sunday Liquor Referendum

Dominican General Claims Expulsion by U. S. Bayonet

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Gen. Elias Wessin y Wessin says a U.S. Army lieutenant held a bayonet at his back when he was expelled from the Dominican Republic last week.
The lieutenant would not let him go to his home to pick up democracy in Latin America, said Wessin y Wessin said.

He made the accusations in a six-page letter to the provisional president of the Dominican Republic, Hector Garcia Godoy, who booted him out last week and hastily announced that he was being appointed consul general in Miami.
"An elemental sense of military honor prevents me from accepting the appointment of general consul in Miami from a government that has used foreign troops to send me to exile by force," said the letter, dated Sept. 10.
"That was the day Wessin y Wessin landed in Miami after a trip from Santo Domingo via Panama in a U.S. Air Force plane."
"I could never imagine that a military man of my rank could be taken to the airport and expelled with a bayonet at his back," he said.

New Articles Asked for Plan Commission

Fox Valley Regional Group Action Would Give More Stability

The executive committee of the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission will be asked Thursday to approve new articles of agreement for the commission.

The constitution and by-laws committee last week prepared a new set of articles to give the commission more stability and coordinating ability.

The move was taken to establish the commission's proper legal foundation, a subject of questioning by the Housing and Home Financing Agency. The agency, a part of the new Urban Affairs cabinet post, had questioned the adequacy of the enabling legislation and the articles of agreement.

Amendment Made

The first point was taken care of by the amendment of state statute 66.30, which specifically states that municipalities can create joint cooperation commissions by contract.

Changes in the article of agreement that would clear up many questions that have arisen in the past include:

A statement that the commission is created under state statute 66.30.

A statement that the functions of the commission shall continue to be solely advisory to local governmental units. The articles would call for submission to the commission for review facilities shown on the regional master plan, zone changes, subdivision plats and official map changes.

Must Give Notice

Municipalities intending to withdraw from the commission must give 12-months' notice. At present, municipalities may withdraw with no advance notice to other municipalities or the commission.

Other business to be discussed will include the proposed budget for 1966, progress report on the open-space agreement and a report on the hiring of Arno Haering as new assistant director of the commission.

The committee will meet at 8:30 p.m. in the board room of the Home Mutuals Insurance Co. building.

A North Central Airlines DC-3 made an emergency landing at the Outagamie County airport Tuesday night after it was damaged in a scheduled landing attempt at Stevens Point earlier. Damage is visible on the hood of the plane's left engine, apparently received when the plane struck trees or brush at Stevens Point. Eight persons, five passengers and a crew of three, aboard the plane, were not injured. Apparently because of hydraulic system damage, the plane ran off the end of the Outagamie airport runway.

Airplane Makes Emergency Landing at Outagamie Port

Struck Trees at Stevens Point

A North Central Airlines DC-3 carrying eight persons made an emergency landing at Outagamie County Airport shortly after 11 p.m. Tuesday after an engine and other equipment were damaged in an approach to land at Stevens Point, 60 miles northwest. No injuries were reported.

The Federal Aviation Agency control tower at Austin Straubel Field, Green Bay, called Appleton Fire Department at 11:07 p.m. to report that the craft was making an emergency landing here and possibly would be in need of fire-fighters' assistance. The plane had landed by the time firemen arrived some nine minutes later. Grand craft will not present an interruption to air service into the airport.

Mayor Clarence Mitchell was notified the Appleton fire department had been alerted for the emergency landing and arrived at Outagamie Airport as passengers were being discharged.

Two passengers were identified as Kenneth Mueller and Tony Pinillio, Minneapolis-St. Paul, officials of the Como Corp., the firm constructing new nursing homes in Appleton and Neenah.

Passengers were reportedly informed the DC-3 "clipped something" in making the approach at the Stevens Point airport.

Other fire departments were reportedly alerted in areas

Officials Talk

OSHKOSH — Representatives of the Leach Co. and Local 1108 of the United Auto Workers, which went on strike last Wednesday, met briefly this morning with federal mediator Joseph Conley, Green Bay.

The two factions then went into separate meetings and were scheduled to meet jointly again at 1:30 p.m. today.

Maurice Reopelle, Milwaukee, UAW International representative, said there had been no change in the company offer from that which led to the strike last week.

He said the union had not filed to date any unfair labor practice charges with either the Wisconsin Employment Relations Board or the National Labor Relations Board. He declined to disclose if the union has any intentions of doing so.

Oshkosh police said picketing at the plant on Harrison Street was very orderly at the close of business Tuesday and when the non-striking production workers reported for work this morning.

Outagamie Airport Construction Cost Set at $4,069,255

$240,000 Over First Estimates;
Net County Expenses $2,731,300

Total cost of the new Outagamie County Airport will be $4,069,255, the contracting firm of Ralph H. Burke, Inc., told Outagamie County Board of Supervisors Tuesday.

The total represents an increase of about $240,000 over engineers' original bid prices, due, a representative of the firm said, to unanticipated costs and the building of larger facilities than had been planned earlier.

The net cost to the county, after deduction of incomes including federal and state aids and sale of land at the old airport, will be $2,731,300. With a total of $2,555,000 in paid and outstanding bills, the county presently has a reserve of $294,500, including $67,500 from land sale at the old airport.

If the county were to build the proposed cross-wind runway without Federal Aviation Agency aid, the firm said, the $294,500 reserve would be needed, plus an additional $593,000, a total of $887,500.

Unanticipated Costs

Included in the unanticipated costs are the Civil Aeronautics Board hearings, $37,112; legal fees for the appeal from the CAB ruling, $8,204; and construction of a temporary terminal building, $35,894.

The firm pointed out that the permanent terminal building cost a total of $313,000, compared with the earlier estimated cost of $232,200; primary land fees were expected to total $510,000, but came to $779,334; and cost of the hangar original-

Thompson Presses Bid
For Election

Ald. Glenn Thompson (13th ward) pressed his bid for a 1966 city primary election when he appeared before the Board of Public Works Tuesday.

The board was at first inclined to defer the request until next spring but changed its mind and will refer the matter to the entire Appleton City Council tonight.

At the last council meeting, Thompson submitted a resolution calling for a primary whenever more than two candidates seek a local office. He wants the council to take action by Nov. 26.

Ald. R. P. Groh (8th) suggested the primary matter be laid over until the organization meeting of the council next April.

Council Should Decide

Appleton for several years has not held primary elections in selecting its city officers, including aldermen and county supervisors.

Thompson inquired why the board did not wish to take action now on his resolution and was told that all 20 council members should be involved in making a determination.

Ald. Alvin E. Tews (5th) told Thompson he had asked his question and wanted him to answer one. "Let me ask you why you really want this primary," Tews inquired.

Thompson replied, "It represents the best form of government . . . and besides I don't think that under the present system we are getting a true vote."

Thompson said the lack of a primary always favored the incumbent officeholder. "I don't think its an honest form of government," he added.

6 New Aldermen

Tews said he was not fully in accord with Thompson's view, pointing out that in the spring election six new aldermen were elected to the council.

Ald. Roy Pointer (14th) said Thompson should have an opportunity to present his proposal to all aldermen at a committee of the whole following tonight's regular council meeting. The board agreed.

At one point Public Works Director Robert W. Bues and Kelley Bradford, Alfred Bradford, Joseph Cummings and A. Schreve, both appointive officials, questioned whether they should be called upon to make a major policy decision affecting the legislative branch of city government.

Each has a vote on the board.

Results of Referendum Cause Mixed Reactions

The defeat of four referendum questions to make the posts of the city clerk, assessor, attorney citizens of Appleton cherish and treasurer appointive met their right in vote, even though with mixed reaction in Appleton these officers do not set policy.

'Accept Responsibility'

"We only hope," he continued, "they will now accept this responsibility which they prefer to keep by selecting and electing happy with the results." Bal-ling competent, interested candidate's committee campaigned dates to these officers. This has been our sole purpose."

Both the league and the taxpayers groups conducted a campaign urging Appleton voters to vote "yes" on the referendum questions.

At city hall, Elden Broehm, making officials should be ap- city clerk, said he was "very pointed. We also believe in the happy returns show we can rule of the majority and we still rely on the voters in the accept the results of the referendum."

"Naturally, we are disappointed," said John MacKenzie, president of the Appleton Taxpayers Association. "However," he added, "it is encouraging at the same time to see that the city clerk, assessor, attorney citizens of Appleton cherish and treasurer appointive met their right in vote, even though with mixed reaction in Appleton these officers do not set policy."

CAB to Investigate

Some of the passengers were taken to area motels and arrangements were made to get them to their destinations.

Civil Aeronautics Board representatives were to arrive in Appleton today to investigate the accident and personnel from the Minneapolis office of North Central began arriving early this morning.

The disabled plane remained just off the end of the runway late this morning, although the Mayor Clarence Mitchell said he "requested to have the vote. It was granted. The citizens made their decision and it will be carried out."

North Central Airliner in Trouble

'Thought We Were Heading for Ground,' Says DC-3 Passenger

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"I thought we were in the trees for good and heading for the ground."

The firsthand account of a North Central airliner in trouble over Stevens Point airport under a blanket of darkness Tuesday night came today from a Minneapolis businessman.

Ken Mueller, an official of the Como Corp. which is opening new nursing homes in Appleton and Neenah, was one of the five passengers of the troubled DC-3 flight.

"When we clipped the trees I figured we would end up on the ground but the pilot pulled the plane out on one engine," related Mueller, an experienced pilot in his own right.

Wasn't Alarmed

"I wasn't really alarmed once I knew what happened but a girl passenger . . . I'd say in her twenties . . . and another man appeared to be 'shook up,'" Mueller said.

Mueller, accompanied by another Como official, Tony Pinillio, said no one panicked, however.

Asked if he could recount the chain of events which led to the crippled aircraft making a forced landing at

Outagamie Airport here, Mueller gave this play-by-play:

"There had been some showers in the area but the clouds were only spotty as we neared the Stevens Point airport."

"The pilot came in too high at his first attempt to land and then made a second pass."

'Block From Runway'

"I would say it appeared we were about a block from the tip of the runway when the plane hit the trees. We had come in low this time."

"You could tell in those split seconds that we lost an engine but the pilot poured it on and pulled us out on the one remaining engine."

"We were led to believe the plane would then be going to Green Bay to try a landing."

However, Green Bay reported a double layer of clouds and it was decided the disabled aircraft should try to make a forced landing at Oshkosh where weather conditions were better.

"We were kept abreast of what was taking place. There were some tense moments."

He thought the crucial decision to drop down at Appleton was made because the plane was losing gas and there may have been more risk in trying to make it to Winnebago County Airport at Oshkosh.

Mueller estimated the plane had been flying at altitudes of 5,200 to 6,000 feet but wasn't sure.

The passengers were not aware the emergency landing was being made at Outagamie Airport.

"As we started to set down here there apparently was some doubt as to whether the landing gear was operatable," Mueller recounted.

'Had No Brakes'

"But the pilot did a real good job when he touched down on the runway. . . . He had no power and no brakes."

That was the reason for the aircraft coasting along the 5,200 concrete runway until coming to a halt just over the edge.

"I couldn't imagine where we were when I stepped off the plane but then I recognized it was Outagamie Airport because I've flown here before," Mueller added.

The flight had been originally scheduled to terminate at Stevens Point. But the passengers really didn't care where it ended — once they touched ground again.

Constant Innovation Needed For Economy, Forum Told

Chairman of Governor's Board
Urges Research, Development

Appleton businessmen and civic leaders were told Tuesday that research and development is today's key to economic survival — not only within specific regions of the United States, but between nations.

H. B. Groh, president of the Wisconsin Telephone Co. and chairman of the Governor's Board for Economic Development, told 225 persons at the annual forum of Appleton service clubs that "the value of new research and never-ending innovation cannot be overlooked in said, "and create new sources of economic development for Wisconsin."

He said the concept of research and development has been stressed as the prime motivator for economic growth.

"Its vitality lies in the fact that research and development is a self-generating pump-primer," Groh added.

He said experience on the national level and in other states bears out three important factors:

"The leaders of the business community, including those from large companies to small, have to be willing to take the risk of setting up research programs. They have to be willing to underwrite the marketing of new products and processes."

Must Be Liason

"There has to be a close liason between businessmen and educational institutions."

"There has to be a closer dialogue between Wisconsin's business community and the national government. Today, the federal government is the basic generator of new technical knowledge."

He said that no matter where the research evolves, "it is a

Neenah Takes No Action on Vocational Bill

Adult School Board Waiting for Master Plan for Institution

NEENAH — The Neenah board of vocational education has advised the other Fox Cities vocational schools that it will take no formal action on the development of the proposed area vocational institute until it sees the master plan of the state vocational board and the co-ordinating committee for higher education. James Keating, president said, "We will have to take a look at the master plan and no decision can be made until we see it."

Since February, 1964, there has been a series of meetings and discussions by vocational school directors and board members in Appleton, Kaukauna, Kaukauna, Menasha and Neenah dealing with proposed vocational school development. Appleton, Kimberly and Menasha have gone on record as favoring a technical institute including the five districts.

The signing of Bill 501-A by Gov. Warren Knowles last Thursday, which becomes law when published within 12 days, has reignited interest in the institute and the establishment of large vocational districts throughout the state.

This act is for the purpose of establishing a statewide system of vocational, technical and adult education districts throughout the state, by July 1, 1970. Prior to that time, the law states, "the governing body of any county, municipality or school district operating a high school may elect, singly or in any contiguous combination, to be constituted a school district as designated by the state board under this section and, if the state board and the coordinating committee for higher education approve, the district will be created."

The Neenah vocational board agreed at its regular meeting Thursday night it wants to be joined with Appleton, Kaukauna, Kimberly and Menasha in the vocational, technical and adult education district. Thomas Ryan, board member, said he thought it was time that the Neenah vocational district be extended to include all parts of the Neenah Joint School District. If this is not done prior to July, 1970, the two state bodies can determine the district in which this area would be contained.

Low Bidder Finally Accepted for Bridge

Alabama Firm to Handle Project On Pacific Street in Appleton

The president of the Appleton City Council questioned the ethics Tuesday of a recommendation to the Board of Public Works to take the high bid for Pacific Street bridge repairs from Pneumatic Concrete and the other from Boldt Construction Co., Appleton. The bids were on a cost-material basis. The firm was requested to submit a quotation.

A representative of Pneumatic Concrete, John L. Simmons, firm said highly skilled personnel and new equipment would be used on the bridge repair awarded the bridge project lower than anyone else's and job, the first project of that questioned why the city took bids. "If any outside bidder was not to be given consideration we should have been told so when the city sent us an invitation to bid," Simmons said. Bues took issue with the estimated project price differential, informing the board that according to his calculations the spread between the Pneumatic Concrete and Boldt bid was only $800. It was Bues' position that in the long run it might be a savings for the city to deal with a local contractor because the firm would always have its equipment and crew available to follow up on any future problems.

Menasha Starting Services in Annexation Area

MENASHA — The city's departments have already set up services inside the new 183.6-acre annexation package. The police department is already patrolling the area by squad car, Police Chief Lester D. Clark said Wednesday, and the retail businesses there have type to be undertaken by the Appleton concern. In other action, the board opened bids for four new police cars, with R & R Dodge, Appleton, submitting the low quotation of $8,580. Other bids, figures including yet. been contacted by officers for information on their security arrangements. The chief said he is in the process of revising his patrolling schedules to handle any traffic problems that may arise when the Fox Valley University Center starts the fall semester. The department of public works is preparing new detailed maps of the city to include the annexed area. Until then, departments like fire and police must make do with an extension tacked onto their old maps. Robert Poss, public works director, said a plan is being set up for refuse collection, but that no petitions have come in for new sewer and water extensions.

Billions in Damage Forecast of Betsy In Louisiana Alone

Governor Certain Death Count Will Rise as Flood Waters Recede

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — United States.
Gov. John J. McKeithen says Betsy's estimated insurable losses of more than a quarter of more than a billion dollars damage in Louisiana and he fears the death toll will jump.
"There is no question but that we will find more bodies after flood waters recede," the governor said Tuesday after a boat and helicopter survey of the Mississippi River delta lands to the south.
The certified death toll had reached 74—62 in Louisiana, 7 in Florida, 4 in Arkansas, 1 in Mississippi.
"Louisiana has suffered a disaster comparable to an earthquake," said McKeithen.
The search for a sunken barge loaded with 600 tons of deadly chlorine was renewed at Baton Rouge, 85 miles upstream.
Lethal Gas
The chlorine, a common industrial chemical, was shipped in four big tanks aboard the barge. A ruptured tank would allow the chemical, released from pressure, to form a lethal gas which could bubble out of the water and, like a low hanging mist, move with the winds, killing anything in its path.
Officials emphasized that the odds against the tanks rupturing are great and that they expect no emergency.
The big danger was that a vessel on the busy river could plow into the sunken barge. To avoid this, a 37-mile stretch of the river has been closed to traffic.
River traffic was backing up for miles with no end to the search in sight. Coast Guard Capt. Russell Waesche said dredging begins today to see if a safe shipping channel can be opened.
Muddy Water
The search was directed by the Navy destroyer Hymn. The effort included divers, who must work by feel in the muddy water, planes and elaborate underwater detection devices.
The chlorine barge was among scores of barges ripped from moorings and sunk or beached by the hurricane last Friday.
Relief work continued its smooth acceleration throughout the disaster area. In Washington President Johnson prodded federal disaster officials and federal agencies involved in the work to operate without "regard to red tape or hours."
State Insurance Commissioner Dudley Guglielmo said in Baton Rouge, the capital, that property losses covered by insurance alone would reach a record high figure of $300 million, far more than other recorded hurricanes.
Minor Damage
Most tourist attractions in New Orleans received only minor damage from the storm, and hotel and eating accommodations were essentially back to normal operation.
The Insurance Information Institute said the costliest previous storm on record was a November 1950 windstorm that dealt $173.9 million worth of

Help Offered To Destitute Tom Conway

VENICE, Calif. (AP) — Actor Tom Conway, found broke and living in a $2-a-day hotel room, says publicity about his plight has brought a phone call "every five minutes" — but none from former show business associates.
Conway, 61, brother of actor George Sanders, said Tuesday he has had offers to pay his hotel bill and of other places to live.
"I have a place where I'll be able to live and it looks as though there may be a job in the offing for me," he said.
Conway, who once portrayed "The Falcon" and "Inspector Mark Sabre," made 280 movies and earned nearly $1 million in a 25-year acting career.
He is recovering from an eye ailment, has a foot swelling and recently lost his last $15,000 to a swindler, he said.
"I don't particularly want to act," said Conway. He last worked on a Perry Mason show two years ago.
His situation was disclosed when the manager of his apartment hotel telephoned the Evening Outlook in nearby Santa Monica to see if he could be helped.
Conway said he hoped to move Sunday to a West Hollywood home.

Abraham Became Democratic Nominee New York Mayoral Primary Upset Puts Wagner's Status in Jeopardy

NEW YORK (AP) — Abraham D. Beame, a soft-spoken, 5 foot 2-inch scrapper reared on the lower East Side in the roaring '20s, emerged today as a giant in New York politics.
In winning the Democratic mayoral nomination Tuesday night, he defeated City Council President Paul R. Screvane and shook the base of Mayor Robert F. Wagner's political power structure to the very foundations.
Screvane was the retiring mayor's personal choice as a successor. It was said among politicians that Wagner looked to a Screvane victory as a big boost to his own political future — one that might lift him into the governor's chair.
Role in Jeopardy
Now Wagner's role as the state's No. 1 Democrat may be in jeopardy.
At first glance, Beame, 50, doesn't look the giant killer. He is always well groomed, silver hair smoothly combed. He speaks softly, almost in a whisper when he is talking to a friend.
A closer look reveals a jaw firmly set, probing eyes and a straight bearing.
"The victory is sweeter because it was an upset," he said today of the primary results. He predicted an uphill fight against

GOP Leaders Optimistic About Chances

Dirksen Goes Beyond Nixon Prediction for 1966-68 Elections
By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — GOP leaders today barked optimistic estimates by former Vice President Richard M. Nixon that Republicans will bounce back with substantial gains in the House in next year's elections.
Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he believes his party not only will gain the 40 seats in the House, two in the Senate and two governors' posts in 1966 that Nixon predicted but will give a good account of itself in 1968.
Victor A. Johnston, field director for the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, said in a separate interview he thinks the GOP may gain as many as four Senate seats. He listed Tennessee, Alabama, Montana and Oregon as prime possibilities.
Nixon told a news conference Tuesday he believes Republicans will regain more than the 38 House seats they lost in 1964 because the quarrel between conservatives and liberals which he said had caused their landslide defeat will be substantially patched up.
Such increases in GOP strength as he forecast would leave the Democrats in control of both houses.

Pair Lauded in Washington Astronauts to Start Tour Of Africa, Middle East

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's accolades received, astronauts L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles Conrad Jr. set out tonight on a goodwill tour of the Middle East and Africa.
Because it is a goodwill mission and because Washington wants to accent the peaceful aspects of space exploration, the Gemini 5 astronauts will be traveling in civilian clothing — although both are military officers.
In fact, one of the highlights of their day in the Washington limelight Tuesday was word from President Johnson that they are being nominated for promotion.
For Cooper, an Air Force lieutenant colonel, this means promotion to colonel; for Conrad, a Navy lieutenant commander, this means a step-up to commander.
Taken in Stride
In fact, the astronauts were pretty much taken in stride. A White House reception lasted only 10 minutes. Spectators along the Constitution Avenue parade route were outnumbered by police. In the Senate, the heroes had to wait for a final vote on the farm bill before they were free to address the assembled senators.
Still, it was a cheerful day, and a pleasant summery one. At Johnson's desk, Conrad's four sons, the oldest 10 and the youngest 4, frolicked about, taking the play from the ceremony at which Cooper and Conrad received space agency medals for "outstanding contributions to the technology of manned space flights."

Congress Battleground for Civil Rights, Leader Says

Bayard Rustin Claims Cities Not Capable of Handling Integration

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief architect of the 1963 march on Washington said today Congress has emerged as the battleground for the nation's civil rights movement.
"There is not a major city in the country that has the resources, finances and the will to integrate schools or to bring about employment for Negroes or to destroy slums," Bayard Rustin said in an interview.
"The Negro has finally realized that to accomplish this will require votes, planning and billions of dollars from Congress," he added.
This realization, Rustin said, is the most significant aspect of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic party's unsuccessful attempt to unseat the state's five congressmen.
The Freedom Democratic party's battle has been endorsed by every major civil rights group in the nation, Rustin said, and has taught them all that "Congress now must become a focal point for the advancement of the struggle."
"Even if we lose this battle," he said, "it will act as a spur to increase the concentration on Congress."
Rustin, who has been described by many civil rights leaders as the visionary in the movement, now heads the A. Philip Randolph Institution which is fundamentally concerned with the eradication of economic barriers to the Negro. The institution is located in New York.
Start of Movement
Rustin said that the new-found unanimity among civil rights congressional response, a regrouping "serves notice on Congress of a beginning of a great before."

Highway Bill Before Senate

Beautification Is Pet Project of President's Wife

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate takes up today a bill to promote highway beautification, a pet project of Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson and a priority item on President Johnson's legislative list.
Along with federal funds to improve the looks of the nation's principal roads, the measure would provide federal controls on billboards and junkyards along their routes.
The program would cost the federal government $320 million from tax revenues over the next two years to reimburse states for the beautification work and to compensate businessmen affected by the regulations. The cost for later years is still to be estimated.
Passage Expected
Despite strong opposition, the Senate is expected to pass the bill after a day or two of debate. The measure has been revised considerably from Johnson's original recommendations.
The administration and the bill's supporters agreed Tuesday night on two further changes. One would increase the federal share of payments to owners of billboards and junkyards. The other would give the secretary of commerce, rather than the states, the final say on which areas should be exempt from billboard controls.
In order to continue to receive U.S. highway aid, states would have to agree to control billboards and junkyards by Jan. 1, 1968.

Mine Explosions Damage Church

MASONTOWN, W.Va. (AP) — The Rev. Forrest S. Harvey pastor of the Church of the Nazarene in this small Preston County community, says his church is wrecked and he wants to know who is going to pay for the damage.
The Rev. Mr. Harvey said Monday a recent series of underground explosions in an abandoned coal mine beneath the community have caused $20,000 worth of damage to the church.
seals, we can regain a position of effective position in Congress," Nixon said.
The former vice president said that if President Johnson doesn't stub his toe in some international encounter and doesn't run into economic difficulties at home, he may be even stronger politically in 1968 than he is now.
Declining to discuss the possibility that he might bid for the Republican presidential nomination again three years from now, Nixon insisted that Johnson hasn't really been tested in any international disaster, despite the eruption in the Dominican Republic and the fighting in Viet Nam.

Funeral Rites For Seymour Women Set

Pair Drowns as Car Plunges Into River From Ramp

SEYMOUR — Funeral services for Mrs. Henry Hauch, 69, and Mrs. T. A. Nickodem, who died Tuesday when their car plunged into the Fox River from a parking ramp in Green Bay have been set for Friday and Saturday, respectively.

Mrs. Nickodem is the wife of Seymour banker T. A. Nickodem.

Both were members of St. John Catholic Church where funeral services will be held. Both will be buried in the parish cemetery.

Services for Mrs. Hauch will be at 3 p.m. Friday. Friends may call at the Muehl Funeral Home after 2 p.m. Thursday until the time of service Friday. She is survived by three sisters, nieces and nephews.

Crashed Through Panel

Services for Mrs. Nickodem will be at 10 a.m. Saturday. Friends may call at the funeral home after 2 p.m. Friday. She is survived by her husband, a son and a daughter.

The two women drowned when the car driven by Mrs. Nickodem crashed through a five-inch concrete panel on the fourth floor on the municipal parking ramp adjacent to the Fox River.

Fire Department divers pulled the bodies from the back seat of the auto which was upside down in about 10 feet of water.

The two women had come to Green Bay with Mrs. Charles Friend, also of Seymour, who was waiting for them to join her for a luncheon engagement at a nearby hotel.

Sank in Muck

She had left the pair earlier to shop at a nearby jewelry store.

Firemen Answer Call To AAL Building as Failure Trips Alarm

Three units from the Appleton Fire Department were sent to the Aid Association for Lutherans building, 222 W. College Ave., at 8:26 p.m. Tuesday after an alarm was set off.

Firemen discovered that a power failure had tripped the alarm and there was no fire.

At 12:08 p.m. Tuesday, one unit was sent to the 900 block of E. South River Street where it was found men were burning brush without a permit and not within the designated burning hours.

Firemen responded with one unit at 8:34 p.m. Tuesday to the Ous Graves residence, 325 E. Frances St., where a kitchen light fixture was smoking.

Outagamie Red Cross Gets Request for Aid For Disaster Victims

A telegram requesting voluntary contributions for hurricane Betsy's disaster victims was received by the Outagamie chapter of the American Red Cross.

It is estimated that 12,000 families may register for Red Cross assistance and that the cost may approximate $5 million, exceeding the remaining balance of the regular annual budget of the organization and causing a further drain on the disaster revolving fund.

Donations sent to the local chapter will be forwarded.

The Wisconsin Employment Relations Board scheduled a hearing Sept. 27 on the complaint which the firm's attorney said was filed Monday.

Five workers pleaded innocent to disorderly conduct charges filed in court after a melee on the picket line Monday. County Judge James V. Sitter continued the cases until next Monday.

Only scant information was available at Stevens Point today. There is no control tower at the port there and an uncontrolled landing system is in effect.

However, North Central does maintain direct radio contact with its incoming and outgoing planes, and had contact with the DC3.

It was learned that high-ranking North Central officials were expected to arrive at the Outagamie Airport before noon today. In the meantime, the airline was checking out the incident and withholding comment.

Reports to Inform Residents of Board, District Activities

KIMBERLY — Members of the board of education voted Monday to permit Myron Huht, business manager, to have monthly reports on school board activities mailed to all residents in the school district in an effort to keep people informed on various school programs.

The initial report will be a brochure explaining the Oct. 12 referendum on whether to float a $425,000 bond issue with which to finance completion of the second floor and enlargement of the industrial arts and music departments at the senior high school and purposed for the expansion.

Minutes of school board meetings and information on junior and senior high school programs and activities will be included in the monthly reports which will be delivered to homes through the use of bulk mailing. Cost of the information program is expected to be about $300 per year.

Consulting Firm

Board member approved the hiring of T. G. Evenson and Associates, Minneapolis, as consultant on financial and business details necessary for the contemplated bond issue. The firm will advise on election brochures, print bonds, publish bond notices, prepare and distribute a bond prospectus and handle other details of the issue. A minimum fee of $750 was set for the work.

Preliminary approval was given to the 10-classroom addition to Janssen School, combined Locks. Plans were made for an Oct. 5 open house at the school, to be held in conjunction with a Parent-Teacher association meeting.

The board adopted a policy whereby all workers at the senior high school would be granted free admission to all athletic events and activities at the school. Workers in other schools in the system desiring to attend a specific event will be required to contact Darrell Larson, high school principal, in advance, for tickets.

Jerry's Lanes, the village entry in the Badger Amateur Basketball Association, was granted permission to use the junior high school gym for five or seven games during the coming season.

Police said the man, who has not yet been charged, is being questioned about obtaining checks and opening small accounts in three area banks and then cashing checks far exceeding the amounts he had deposited.

A total of $5 reportedly was put into the three accounts and 22 checks, ranging in amounts from $5 to $21 were written on that account, police said. Merchandise was purchased with most of the money from the cashed checks.

Police said the man, who has not yet been charged, is being questioned about obtaining checks and opening small accounts in three area banks and then cashing checks far exceeding the amounts he had deposited.

Calumet Reapportionment Plan Adopted by Supervisors

Action Taken Over Objections of Hilbert Supervisor Herman Greve

CHILTON—Calumet County's Civil Defense program and as reapportionment plan was adopted this morning by the county board of supervisors over the objections of Herman Greve, Village of Hilbert supervisor.

A special session was required to enact the reapportionment ordinance when Greve blocked action at Tuesday's regular session. When unanimous consent was requested so that the supervisors could vote after the first reading, Greve objected.

Rather than hold the measure over to the October meeting, today's session was called. The vote was 17-4 in favor of the plan that reduces the board's membership from 24 to 16 supervisors.

Immediate Action

Many members felt that immediate action was necessary. The October meeting was too near the Nov. 1 deadline for the reapportionment committee, they claimed.

Greve, during earlier reapportionment discussion, had stated that he felt Hilbert should not be left without its own supervising officer of the aspect of the law.

The plan was one of three drawn up by a special committee appointed by board chairman L. H. Huibregtse and headed by G. J. Hipke.

Youth Fined $75 In Beer Party Incident Charge

Steven J. Johnson, 20, Oneida, one of 13 persons arrested early the morning of Sept. 4 following a sheriff's department raid on a beer party, was fined $75 and costs when he changed his plea from innocent to guilty Tuesday afternoon in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Johnson had pleaded innocent to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of minors, as did 10 other persons when all 13 first appeared in court Sept. 7.

Two of the 13 pleaded guilty at the first appearance. They were Harvey E. Cornelius, 20, 211 Ford Howard St. DePere, and LeRoy Vanenkervoort, 19, same address. Their cases were continued to Dec. 8, the date of trial for the 10 who have retained their innocent pleas.

The 13 persons, all in their late teens and early 20s, were arrested following a raid on an abandoned dance hall in the Town of Oneida. Seven minors also were found at the party, sheriff's deputies said.

Ask Showdown In Try to Oust 5 Congressmen

Civil Rights Groups
Will Carry Battle
To Floor of House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of the nation's civil rights movement have called for a showdown on the floor of the House in the battle to unseat Mississippi's five congressmen.

A House Elections subcommittee voted Tuesday to recommend dismissal of the election challenges by the Mississippi Freedom Democratic party.

The subcommittee's report now goes to the full House Administration Committee, and then to the House floor for a vote, expected Friday.

Denounce Committee

In a meeting hours later, the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights issued a statement denouncing the subcommittee's action.

More than 40 organizations endorsed the statement, described later by Dr. Martin Luther King of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference as an indication that "we are determined to go all out."

King scheduled a speech to the Freedom Democratic party today.

The statement said in part: "We deplore the haste with which dismissal is being proposed."

"Only two subcommittee hearings have been held, both geared to the dismissal and to no other aspect of the issue. No public hearings have been held. Copies of the evidence on which the challenge is based have not been made available to House members."

Copies to House

A spokesman for the conference said copies of the statement had been sent to the House leadership and all members.

"I hope Congress listens attentively to the fact that the whole movement is behind this," said Dr. Robert W. Spikes, head of the Commission on Religion and Race for the National Council of Churches.

The Mississippi congressmen were seated last January pending the outcome of the challenge. The Freedom Democratic party contended Negroes had been denied the right to vote.

Integrity of U. S. Promise 'Pillar Of World Peace'

SEA ISLAND, Ga. (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk says the principal pillar of world peace is the integrity of U. S. commitments around the globe.

"If the other side ever believed that commitment was not worthwhile, then we have not begun to see the dangers," he told the 31st annual Southern Governors Conference Tuesday night.

Rusk has an off-the-record breakfast with the 14 governors today and then visits his birthplace in Cherokee County, 30 miles north of Atlanta.

In his address he repeated that the United States is ready to talk peace in Viet Nam but said Communist leaders have not shown a willingness to do so.

"Hanoi and Peking will not come to the conference table and they vilify those who would," Rusk said.

Cheered at Ben Cat

Army Invades 'All Red' Area North of Saigon

By HORST FAAS
BEN CAT, South Viet Nam (AP) — People lined the road and cheered as American troops passed through Ben Cat. It was not the kind of reception expected in this longtime Communist strong point.

Elsewhere along the road from Bien Hoa the people had turned away from the convoy with an air of hostility.

This area about 30 miles north of Saigon long has been one of the strongest Viet Cong centers in the country.

The surrounding countryside is considered "all Viet Cong." The region was the target of the first B52 strike and planes from Guam pounded the area again Tuesday.

Base Area Sought

The present ground operation was designed to wrest control from the Viet Cong and to lay a base for government and U.S. forces to operate.

Taking part in the operation were the U.S. Army's 173rd Airborne Brigade, battalions of Vietnamese government troops and men of the Australian and New Zealand contingents serving here.

The first convoy set out from Bien Hoa early Tuesday. It was made up of 173rd troopers in armored personnel carriers, trucks and armed scout Jeeps. By dawn it had reached Thu Dau Mot without incident. There it turned north up Route 13 for Ben Cat.

Raid At Night

There had been no sign of the Viet Cong but reports were received that about two battalions of Communist troops had hit a nearby government post during the night. Heavy rains had melted away some of the earth road blocks, permitting the convoy to move straight along the roadway.

As the vehicles roiled along, the first B52 strike began. The jet bombers could be seen passing west of Ben Cat, dumping their loads of explosives into the region known as the "Iron Triangle." A short time later the B52's again pounded their targets everywhere. But, he said, there must be no reckless attempts to hurl ourselves over a cliff and into a major war.

get. Huge clouds of black smoke rose from the target area.

By the time the convoy had rolled toward Ben Cat, Vietnamese government troops already had moved in, helping to secure the road.

Convoy Rolls On

At the northeast exit of the town, the convoy commander, Capt. David Moore of Seattle, Wash., asked a Vietnamese lieutenant if there were friendly troops farther north.

The reply was, "No. Be careful. All V.C."

"That's what we are here for," Moore said.

The convoy rolled on. About 250 yards outside the town the vehicles came under sharp sniper fire. Troopers hit the dirt and opened up with their own weapons.

Shooting Ceased

One man carrying a rifle came out of the woods near the road. He was cut down.

The shooting died down and the convoy learned that the sniper fire apparently had come over the heads of a government intelligence platoon in hidden listening posts on both sides of the road.

A heated controversy followed over the apparent lack of coordination in passing along information about the convoy to the Vietnamese government forces and their American advisers.

Four wounded Vietnamese were brought to the road and taken away.

Shouted Angrily

A Vietnamese major shouted angrily that some of his best men had been endangered. He said they were dressed in the black pajamas worn by both the popular forces and the Viet Cong because "we fight guerrillas."

U.S. advisers joined in.

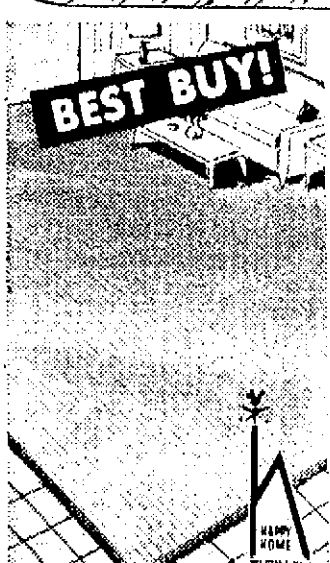

A truck car back in the convoy set off a mine. New Zealand troops were aboard. Light casualties were reported.

By afternoon other troops came in by helicopter and took up their positions. The road convoys had reached the goals and troops were deployed.

The wait was on to see if the Viet Cong would take up the challenge for control of the surrounding area.

Steel Firms Step Up Plans To Modernize

Change Necessitated By High Labor Cost, Problems of Pricing

By PHILIP J. KLEIPER
NEW YORK AP — The nation's steel industry, faced with higher labor cost and pricing problems today is stepping up a vast modernization program.
The outlay for new plant and equipment in the huge industry may top $4 billion for the full time in 1966, observers say. Many believe that the 2.2 per cent wage increase won this month by the United Steel Workers' Union may have nudged steel company modernization plans.

The American Iron and Steel Institute estimates steel companies will spend a record $1.9 billion this year on projects designed to melt and roll steel more efficiently. Not since 1954 has the industry spent comparable sums on modernization. But with profit now at a seven-year peak and production at record levels, steel mills are showing a new face.

Oxygen furnaces, faster cooling, oxygen burners replacing conventional open hearths, there are computer-run mills and streamlined shape for the thousand of products that contain steel.

The industry has been facing up to getting its plant and equipment into more competitive shape and a major steel company spokesman said.

Critics of the industry say the modernization program was long overdue — that it should have been launched on a vast scale in the years after World War II. Partly because of greater efficiency, the steel industry's payroll costs per ton of steel shipped dropped from $63.50 in 1961 to $55.75 in the first six months of 1965.

Higher steel prices have been a touchy prospect for the industry since 1962 when the late President John F. Kennedy rolled back steel price boosts in a bitter government industry battle. The same year, the industry put out $911 million for capital projects, increased it to $1.04 billion in 1963, then to an estimated $1.6 billion in 1964.

Foreign Steel
Competition from foreign steel, which made inroads during the industry's costly 116-day strike in 1959, also has speeded the industry's modernization pace.

Some steel plant projects are enormous. Bethlehem Steel Corp. is building an $400 million steel-rolling mill at Burns Harbor, Ind., is the world's largest private construction project in progress.

U. S. Steel Corp., the nation's No. 1 steelmaker, announced that it will spend $600 million a year for the next three years on plants and equipment. This represents a capital expenditure for 1966 that approaches the total of 1963 and 1964 combined.

Steelmaking advances include continuous casting of molten steel into semifinished shapes, a European process that does away with some costly steps in the traditional steelmaking process.

New rolling mills to form hearth furnaces. Steel producers already have put in 26 million tons of oxygen furnace capacity.

A. C. Remley Will To be Admitted to Probate Sept. 21

The will of Adam C. Remley, industrialist and civic leader who died Aug. 17, is scheduled to be admitted to probate in Outagamie County Court Branch I on Sept. 21.

Remley was retired vice president of the Neenah-Edwards Paper Co. of Port Edwards, was an Outagamie County Board supervisor from Appleton, served as one of the first presidents of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce and was a former city engineer and an instructor for several years at Lawrence University. He lived at 25 River Drive.

The inventory filed shows that Remley leaves $500 to the board of trustees of Lawrence University in memory of his wife, Elsie P. Remley, to be added to the memorial fund established for her at the college.

Another $500 each is willed to his grandchildren and the remainder of Remley's estate is left to his sons, Samuel and Arthur, to be divided equally. The value of the estate was listed as being undetermined.

Industries Announce Increase in Prices of Various Paper Grades

NEW YORK (AP) — Several divisions of industry have announced price increases in recent days.

In the paper industry, Kimberly-Clark Inc. said it will boost the prices of coated paper about $10 a ton.

The Mead Papers division of the Mead Corp. announced price increases averaging 2 1/2 cents a pound on most advertised grades of printing and business paper.

Gilbert Paper Co. of Menasha is a division of Mead Corp.

Plans Underway for Fun, Pass Contest

KAUKAUNA — Plans are underway by the recreation department to sponsor a pun, pass and kick contest sometime in October in conjunction with Coffey Motors.

Registration of boys between 8 and 13 years of age is now underway at Coffey's. Boys must be eight years of age by Jan. 3, 1966 and cannot be 14 by that date to participate.

A parent must accompany youngsters when registering. Prizes will be awarded in each division and a representative of the Green Bay Packers will be on hand to help supervise the program.

Youth Fined $20 for

KAUKAUNA — Earl Schmidt, 19, route 1, Kaukauna, pleaded guilty to a charge of driving without lights and was fined $20 when arraigned before Oscar T. Jahns, municipal justice. Schmidt was arrested after being involved in an accident at 10:30 p.m. Friday at County Trunk OO and State Highway 51.

Shapes are being built, some equipped with computers to control the process. Computers already are running two strip steel mills and a dozen more computer-controlled mills are being installed or built.

Probably the biggest advance has been the installation of oxygen furnaces, which melt raw steel much faster and more cheaply than the traditional open hearth.

What impact modernization will have on the number of workers employed by the steel mills is a question steel executives are hesitant to tackle. They say that because of the record demand for steel, the industry's payroll has been climbing. In July it stood at $13,000 workers, compared with $54,000 five years before.

Board of Health Approval Will be Sought for Restaurant Program

NEENAH — Stanley Wittwer, of Dairy Lab Service, Manitowish, will meet with State Board of Health officials to seek approval of a joint Neenah-Menasha restaurant inspection program and make a recommendation as to costs and services to the two communities before budget discussions end in October.

Wittwer made this promise Monday evening after a meeting with public health officials for the cities of Neenah and Menasha, public health nurses and members of the two cities' health and welfare committees in Neenah City Hall.

Two officials of the State Board of Health, Roy Clary, director of the hotel and restaurant division, Madison, and Harold Wittig, public health sanitarian, Fond du Lac, warned the gathering that the proposed program of local inspection and education of food handlers may meet with some difficulty at the state level.

Explore Joint Plan
Clary said the state has a policy of not allowing a community of less than 30,000 to initiate its own inspection program. He said he felt the possibility of a joint program with two cities of a little over a combined 30,000 population may require serious consideration.

The meeting Monday was the second to explore possibilities of the two cities contracting for Wittwer's services as milk sanitarian to develop a local inspection program of restaurants and food handlers as an extension of his services.

The State Board of Health now conducts the program on a once-a-year basis.

State officials said if the Twin Cities took over the inspection program, they could not do restaurants alone but would have to include all food handling establishments numbering about 44 in Neenah and 43 in Menasha. Fees paid the state through licensing these establishments total $630 annually in Neenah and $325 in Menasha. Should the cities take over the program, half of the fees would be returned to the cities to help defray cost of the service.

If adopted, Wittwer said, he would be responsible for coordination of the program and be answerable to the municipalities. He proposed an inspection three times a year per establishment and an additional inspection of washing facilities for eating utensils. State officials also would do an annual inspection of Wittwer's work.

Wittwer said he could make no definite estimate as to cost for the service except that it might come close to the $3,100 annual fee paid by each city for milk inspection services.

Don Kuehneman, chairman of Neenah's health and welfare committee, said he favored the joint program and wondered if it would replace state inspection. Officials said it would, but the state would provide an indirect service with index file listings of all establishments and an orientation program for Wittwer. Officials also suggested enactment of a local licensing program with a $5 to $10 fee to help in enforcement of regulations.

Advantages of the plan were more frequent inspection, greater control and continued and current education in proper food handling techniques.

Conduct Institute
Public health nurses agreed the biggest part of a local program would be education. Wittwer also said he would attempt to conduct an annual food handlers institute. Turn-

Day Takes Knowles in, Out of Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — From the White House to Congress to Europe was Wisconsin Gov. Warren P. Knowles' hectic schedule Tuesday.

Knowles sat in the House chamber as Astronauts L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles Conrad Jr. described their recent eight-day flight through space.

Earlier he swapped pens with President Johnson after the chief executive signed the State Services Technical Act in a White House ceremony.

Knowles ended his Washington whirl by boarding a flight for Amsterdam, Holland, to lead a 113-person Wisconsin Trade Mission to Europe.

The Wisconsin businessmen, seeking to expand their exports, will visit six nations on a three-week tour. "We want to stimulate the whole industrial development in Wisconsin," said Knowles.

The State Department and Commerce Department conducted briefings for the businessmen. Knowles met with Secretary of Commerce John T. Con-

You Don't Need Bath a Day to Keep Dirt Away

By JERRY BUCK
NEW YORK (AP) — Rub-a-dub-dub, you don't have to spend all that time in the tub. For the harried mother who sometimes finds that cleanliness is next to impossible and for the child herded daily into the tub, a New Orleans pediatrician says, "Most of us are bathed too much."

Such a statement ought to make Dr. Ralph V. Platou man of the year with the wet set, but a random sampling around the country drew mixed reaction.

Likes 'To Be Clean'
"I love baths," said Thomas Aronson, 9, of Albany, N.Y. "I especially like to take them before I go to bed because I like to be clean."

"I don't like to take baths — unless mommy lets me take a bubble bath," said Beth Hall, 7, of Atlanta, Ga.

Dr. Platou, chairman of the Department of Pediatrics at Tulane Medical School, said in Memphis, Tenn., Tuesday that a bath a day is not only unnecessary, but often harmful.

"Today's strong soaps can remove many of the natural skin secretions which are beneficial. We should be bathed where we are dirty and only when needed," he said. "Otherwise, our skin should be left alone."

'Can't Stay Dirty'
Lisa King, 11, of Miami, Fla., said she has been taking a bath every day for as long as she can remember. Lisa, a sixth grader, said she isn't that crazy about baths, but "you can't stay dirty all the time."

Mrs. Robert Huber of Daly City, Calif., said, "I don't think they need a bath every day. She has three children and 'of course I see that they wash their hands and faces.'"

Switching roles in the traditional parent-child view of daily baths are Mary Riggsby and her daughter, Laurie, 12, of Louisville, Ky.

Mrs. Riggsby said she agrees with Dr. Platou regarding children. Laurie said, "I don't know. I think you should bathe once a day when necessary or at least every other day."

Father Scoffs
Emmett Corrigan, a Louisville father of six, is inclined to scoff at the suggestion. "I know a couple of kids around here that would really go for that. He must work for those people who make deodorants."

Timothy J. Burns, 15, a high school junior at Waltham, Mass., said, "A bath a day isn't necessary but waiting till we're dirty could cramp our social life."

Kathy Dobbin, 8, of Seattle, Wash., said she wants to take baths all the time and showers in between. Mrs. Dobbin said her pediatrician told her not to bathe the children for the first six months. "But I couldn't stand that," she said. "I bathed them anyway."

Consumer Needs

Lobbyist, Says Attorney General

FOND DU LAC (AP) — The consumer's voice in the Wisconsin Legislature is muted, Atty. Gen. Bronson La Follette said Tuesday.

"Private lobbyists representing special interest groups dominate the halls of the Legislature while the muted voice of the largest single group — the consumer of the state of Wisconsin — struggles to be heard," La Follette told a Fond du Lac Democratic Party meeting.

La Follette noted Assembly approval of a bill to increase the length of trucks allowed on Wisconsin roads and said, "It was passed without the interests of the average user of today's highways being taken into consideration."

La Follette, who has called for creation of a consumer protection division within his office, said, "The recent session of the Wisconsin Legislature has demonstrated the clear need for an effective spokesman for the interest of the consuming public."

Coroner's Probe Starts Into Los Angeles Riots

Wednesday, Sept. 15, 1966

The Post-Crescent B 9

National Guardsmen supplementing police and deputies. Total 34 Deaths — Two other deaths — one from a heart attack, the other in a car crash — had been believed at the time to be riot-caused. But the coroner, in announcing his list of deaths to be investigated at inquests, limited the total to 34. The inquests — to determine how each victim met death — will continue, two a day, through Oct. 19. Tuesday's first inquest was enlivened when an American Civil Liberties Union attorney, Hugh Manes, was ejected after declaring: "This seems to be a platform for whitewashing rather than an inquiry into the truth." He had been denied permission to cross-examine witnesses. The nine-member jury, including two Negro men and three white women, first found justifiable the police shooting of Homer Ellis, 45, a Negro. The verdict said he died from a bullet in the heart while acutely intoxicated and committing a felony, burglary. Ellis, a native of Arkansas, had lived here eight years and worked as an automotive brake tender. Previous Convictions — A police lieutenant testified Ellis was convicted of disturbing the peace in St. Louis, Mo., in 1955 and later in Los Angeles of petty theft and three times of drunken driving. The night of Aug. 13, police testified, Ellis was among a dozen or more looters who smashed a liquor store window at 28th St. and Central Ave. and were carrying cases of whisky to a double-parked car. Ellis' widow, Lucille, 37, told newsmen of the verdict: "I think it was a one-sided story. He (the deputy coroner) could have let the attorney (Manes) cross-examine the officers." The widow said she has seven children, six of them by Ellis. Later the same jury decreed justifiable homicide in the shotgun slaying by a deputy sheriff of Joe Nelson Bridgett, 25, alias Joe Nelson Horn, another Negro, the night of Aug. 14.

Inquest Jury Rules Justifiable Homicide In Shooting of Two Looting Suspects

By GENE HANDSAKER LOS ANGELES (AP) — An inquest jury, launching the coroner's probe of last month's disastrous Negro riots, has ruled justifiable homicide in the shooting of two looting suspects by peace officers. ## UW Scientist Cited for Research

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The American Chemical Society cited Dr. Joseph O. Hirschfelder of the University of Wisconsin Monday night for his research in molecular behavior. Dr. Hirschfelder received the $2,000 Peter Debye Award in Physical Research at the society's 150th annual meeting. The award, named after the 1936 Nobel Prize winner for research on molecular structure, is given "to encourage and reward outstanding research in physical chemistry." Dr. Hirschfelder, a theoretical chemist, is primarily concerned with mathematical understanding of the behavior of molecules under stress. The Wisconsin professor played a leading scientific role in the Bikini nuclear bomb tests and was senior editor for the Atomic Energy Commission's publication, "Effects of Atomic Weapons."

Early Decision on UW Sites Sought

President Harrington Counsels Against Delays in Selections

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON—The University of Wisconsin is anxious to expedite the establishment of two new branches of the University, including a proposed branch to serve northeastern Wisconsin. Fred H. Harrington, university president, told a site-selection committee Tuesday.

Harrington advised the committee at a preliminary meeting here that the University administration believes provosts should be named soon for both of the prospective campuses in the Fox River Valley and in the Racine-Kenosha area to provide all possible impetus to early construction and the opening of instruction.

He indicated that he may ask University regents to make such appointments this fall, but he hastened to explain that such action would not interfere with the work of the state's policy-makers on the selection of locations for the campuses.

Prepare Criteria

"We know we're going to have these institutions," he said. "Just where and when will be up to the governor, the building commission and the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education," he went on, noting that experience of other states has shown that without special effort as much as five years elapsed between the authorization of a university branch and its opening.

The site selection committee named Assemblyman Glen Pommerening of Wauwatosa at a first session which also delegated the task of preparing standards for site examination to a committee of state technicians headed by Robert Schrantz of the state building commission staff.

Harrington is a member of the statutory site review committee which will report later to Gov. Knowles, the CCHC, and the commission. Other members are Walter K. Johnson, state planner, and James Galbraith, state architect.

The standards or criteria will involve many factors, but Harrington emphasized that the campus sites ultimately chosen should be flexible, to account for changing needs over the years.

"We all know the mistakes we have made in this field in making our calculations during the last 10 and 20 years," he remarked.

Await Report

Pommerening said the next meeting of his group would await Schrantz' progress in preparing the criteria.

The list of desirable or necessary standards will then be sent to those localities which have made bids for the location of the new institutions. They will then submit their formal applications, in the form of a prospectus.

In the event of objections from any localities about the tests for eligibility, there may be public hearings, the officials indicated. But Pommerening suggested that some of the localities competing for the campus selection will probably be eliminated in that first round. Then the site committee will probably make personal inspections of the sites in the surviving competitor localities, it was indicated. Pommerening said he is anxious to comply with the expressed desire of Gov. Knowles that the site decisions be made within the next six months.

Cites Objectivity

Schrantz explained that he prefers to work out the criteria for site selection objectively and "It would be better if I didn't know who is interested in competing."

President Harrington read from the recent act of the legislature authorizing the planning of the new institutions, which specified that there should be third and fourth year offerings complementing the first and second year university extension centers in both districts, but that the upper class-

Pickle 'n' Jam Session

By Lillian Mackesy
Post-Crescent Food Editor

It may be the tag end of summer by the calendar . . . the time of year when sunny days can be touched with frost and a whispering wind can turn to a howl within minutes under darkling skies . . . but it's also the season of the golden harvest.

It's the time when kitchens become busy places with preserving kettles and canners taking the limelight in culinary drama. Food stores throughout the Fox Valley area are featuring special displays of vinegar and pickling supplies . . . autumn fruits have come to market from nearby orchards and those half a continent away.

It's also the time for the homemaker to think ahead a bit in realization that too soon the traditional family holidays of Thanksgiving and Christmas will descend upon us. Now . . . during the harvest season . . . is the time to plan those wonderfully thoughtful gifts from the home.

Believe it or not, it's only 10 weeks to Thanksgiving and a precious 14 weeks to Christmas. So with these two holidays in mind, especially, this collection of pickle, jam and conserve recipes was collected. Actually they will make fine gifts for any occasion and they'll also make your culinary reputation as an excellent cook.

PICKLED PEACHES

- 24 to 30 hard-ripe peaches
Anti-darkening mixture
1 piece ginger root or 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
1 tablespoon allspice
1 tablespoon cloves
3 sticks cinnamon
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups light vinegar
2 cups water
5 cups sugar

Wash, rinse, scald peaches to loosen skin, then cold dip and peel. Drop either into salt-vinegar mixture or packaged anti-darkening agent prepared according to directions.

The homemade mixture takes two tablespoons of salt and two tablespoons of vinegar to each four quarts of water.

The ginger, allspice, cloves and cinnamon in piece of thin cloth. Place salt, vinegar, water and half the sugar (2 1/2 cups) into wide pan; drop spice bag into this mixture and cook together until sugar dissolves. Then add layer of peaches and boil gently until fruit is hot to the center.

Remove these peaches and heat another layer, repeat until all peaches have been heated in syrup. Place peaches in large kettle or dish, pour syrup over them and let stand overnight in a cool place.

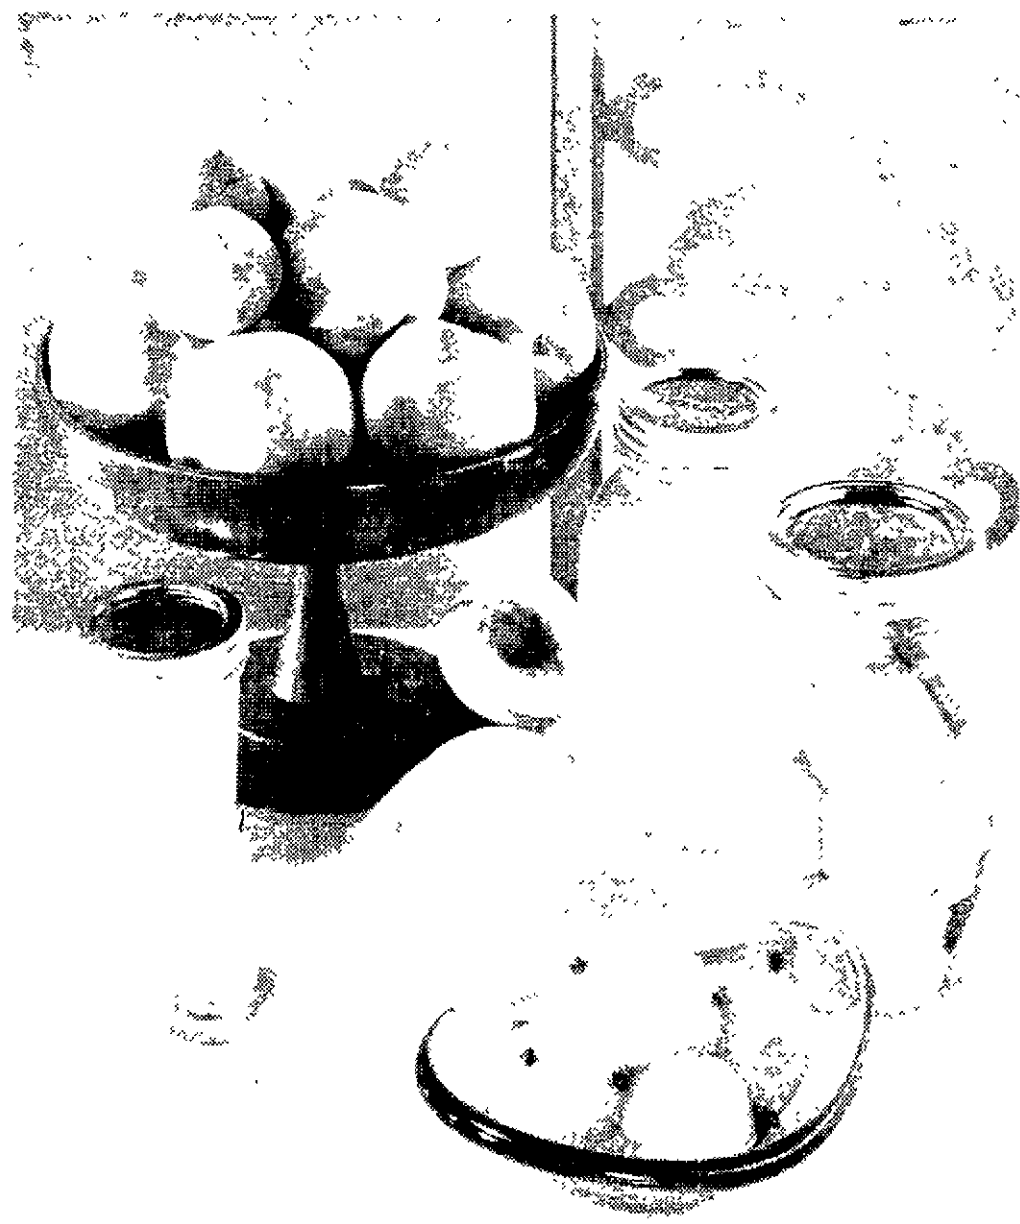

In the morning, drain peaches, reserving syrup, and pack fruit in sterilized jars to within half-inch of top of jars.

Add remaining sugar to reserved syrup; cook until sugar dissolves. Pour this hot syrup over peaches in jars. Carefully run knife between peaches and jar to remove air bubbles. Add enough syrup to cover peaches. Put dome lids on jars, screw bands lightly. Process 20 minutes in boiling water bath.

Your Problems

Encouragement Offered to Pregnant Women Over Forty

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read the letter from the woman who became pregnant at 42. Here is my story and I hope it helps her.

I was 41 when I discovered I was pregnant. Our son was in the Navy and our younger daughter was eight years old. Our older daughter was engaged to be married. We gave her a big church wedding when I was in my seventh month. I had to make my own dress because I couldn't find a mother-of-the-bride gown in a maternity style.

I admit I was not thrilled at first but became reconciled to the fact that I would be raising another child and I tried to be cheerful about it.

My husband was burned up. He called me a dumbbell and told everyone who would listen that all women should be shot at age 40. I was sure he would get over his anger but to my surprise he walked out on me the week after our daughter's wedding. I have not seen him since.

That was 18 years ago. My baby is now a handsome young man about to enter college. I had to go to work to support him and myself but with the help of my two older children I raised the boy. When we went places together strange-ers couldn't figure out the relationship. Once he said to me, "he was 10 years old at the time." I'll sock the next person who calls you my grandmother. The "late arrival" cost me old story my father used to tell my husband, but if I had it to do over again I would not do it differently. This boy is the most marvelous thing that ever happened to me. Paying Rul Glad Dear Glad: That husband of yours sounds like a beauty. How wonderful that you didn't allow his leaving to turn you into a bitter old woman. Congratulations and best wishes.

Ann Landers

A preacher who was delivering his sermon spotted a man in the congregation who was sleeping peacefully. He became annoyed and tried to awaken the slumbering parishioner by speaking loudly, but it was useless. Finally the preacher turned to the deacon and said, "Go wake that man up." The deacon replied, "Wake him up yourself. You are the one who put him to sleep."—Seattle Sam and see heart-breaking pictures of honey, starved, half-naked children wandering around the streets of a bombed out Asian city and then you read the silly, inconsequential complaints that people write to Ann Landers about, doesn't it make you sick to your stomach?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When you pick up a newspaper

We Americans should get down on our knees at night and thank God for the daily blessings of food and shelter and pray for peace. Team From Indiana

"There were many highlights to the week, I couldn't pick out any single one," Sharon Singstock, Miss Wisconsin and fourth runner-up in the Miss America Pageant Saturday evening said this week. Sharon slept almost until noon Tuesday, relaxing and getting used to the slower pace now that her big week is over. She's lost none of the excitement from her voice, however, and, even though Atlantic City was a dream that came true, it's now part of the dream world of yesterday. The young lady who thrilled Oshkosh and all of Wisconsin with her pageant appearance is glad to be home.

One of the highlights was Saturday night and being named one of the top ten. Another was the parade last Tuesday, when she rode the Wisconsin float and learned how warm and cordial were the people of Atlantic City. The Sunday noon awards luncheon was also one of the high points, but greatest of all was the welcome home given her Sunday evening in Oshkosh. She never saw so many people.

50 New Friends

Sharon says she made about 50 close friendships at the pageant. Naturally the girls in her preliminary group were the ones she got to know best. Miss Ohio became a good friend and the two dined and went back and forth to rehearsals together. They also had the same hostess who helped them dress and be ready on time for competition.

Of the ten girls in the semi-finals, five were in Sharon's preliminary group. Of the final five, three were from her group. It shows how strong the contenders in her section were, she says.

Of the winner, Miss Kansas, Sharon says, "Debbie is a very lovely natural girl. She has great desire and therefore will make a very fine Miss America."

Pre-Television Show

Sharon explained that there was a pre-television show at Convention Hall Saturday evening, with swim suit and evening gown competition completed before the show began. Then the girls went through the Parade of States all over again and performed their talent for the TV audience. By then, she says she was very relaxed.

Miss Singstock didn't meet the judges for her interview until Friday evening. She was last, she explains. She feels this was a disadvantage, for when she appeared on the runway in preliminary competition they all were strangers. After her interview, she was much less tense and could look at them as friends.

It was almost family night in Convention Hall. Many of those who cheered Miss Wisconsin were her family and friends. Her brother David, a naval officer, and his wife were there. So were Mom and Dad, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Singstock, 1423 Western Ave., Oshkosh. An aunt and uncle, a cousin, sorority sisters, friends and even a friend from Arizona were there.

'Pretty Nervous'

Best Beau Trip Widder was pretty nervous, Sharon says, when he found she was a semi-finalist. He almost had a heart attack when she emerged as one of the top five. There was relief when she was fourth runner-up.

Though she's beginning to let down a little now that she's home, Sharon says she actually had more rest during the Miss America than the Miss Wisconsin pageant. There was more time to relax, and some of the competition and interviews were scheduled for afternoon instead of evening.

The girls were kept quite cloistered during the week of the Pageant, but Sharon says Betty Halverson, her Wausau chaperone, was the best a girl could have. "She knows how to react to everything."

Flowers Room

Sharon says she received seven charms while she was in Atlantic City, and her room was home to 32 bouquets of flowers. Ginny Haberman, Milwaukee, director of the Miss Wisconsin Pageant, teased her that all she needed was a "Rest in Peace" sign. Sharon was delighted with all the home support she received. She was as well-wished as anyone, she says. From Delafield, where she appeared about a month ago, there was a five-page telegram bearing the good wishes of 51 people.

The mail is still coming in. Tuesday's brought a poem, written by Arthur L. Fischer, 740 Cherry St., Oshkosh, treasurer of the Wisconsin Fellowship of Poets.

Sharon says, "I'm so glad to be from Oshkosh and Wisconsin." She had a wonderful time, but she's happy to be home and eager to take up being Miss Wisconsin again. She'll never forget last week, but she likes being right where she is.

GOLDLOCKS . . . MISS GOLDEN GIRL, OSHKOSH, U.S.A

I've often wondered, while idly dreaming,
Whatever became of Goldilocks.
Perhaps I'm naive, or have never grown up,
Or my fairy godmother stopped clocks.
When absorbed in wonderful fairy tales
I lived in a haze of golden hours
With Sleeping Beauties, Princes Charming,
And pixies, playing in woodland bowers.
Or with my favourite, Goldilocks,
With winsome eyes of blue and tresses of gold;
As winsome a child as was ever known
According to Grimm, in the days of old:
But I wonder no more . . . for now I know
My faith in fairy lore justified,
For . . . wonder of wonders, I've seen her at last
She appeared out of nowhere at my side.

As golden as ever, her eyes just as blue,
With a faraway, dreamy expression:
Their shade?—well, perhaps a forget-me-not hue . . .
Permit me this bold indiscretion.
With the grace of red poppies a-sway in the breeze
Or a swan in the silvery moonlight
That glides over water with effortless ease
Or a magical, star sprinkled June night.
Though radiant as iris, with breathtaking youth,
No statue-like goddess is she.
But vivid as life and as honest as truth.
With a sweet personality.
Now that she has grown to a maiden's estate
And may soon our young manhood enthral!
Though Sharon's her name, I'll not quarrel with fate:
For to me she is Goldilocks still.

Miss Sharon Singstock, Oshkosh, Wisconsin's contender for the Miss America title, posed with five of her 49 new friends after the Pageant Saturday evening. The new queen, center, is Miss Debbie

Bryant, Kansas. At left are Miss Florida, Carol Blum; Miss Mississippi, Patricia Puckett; Miss Indiana, Eileen Smith, and Miss Singstock. (AP Wirephoto)

Recipe makes three quarts or six pints of pickled peaches.

PEACH JAM

- 1 large, tart, seedless orange
- 1 cup water
- 8 cups chopped peaches
- 7 cups sugar
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger
- $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon salt

With razor-sharp knife, remove the thin yellow rind of half of the orange. Finely chop or grind rest of orange. Add 1 cup water to orange, and cook over low heat until peel is mushy soft. Add a little more water if needed to finish cooking.

Wash, rinse, scald peaches, then peel, pit, chop and measure fruit. Turn all ingredients except orange into saucepan or kettle. Pour orange into strainer, held over kettle, and press out as much juice as possible. Boil mixture almost to jelly stage. Do not overcook as jam will thicken more after it is cold. Do stir it to prevent sticking to bottom of kettle. Quickly skim off foam, and pour hot jam to within one-eighth inch of top of pint or half-pint fruit jar. Put dome lid on jar; screw hand tight. Invert jar a few minutes, then stand it upright to cool. Recipe makes six or seven half-pints.

Wash, drain and pick large cranberries. Place tablespoon water in stone jar, then add cranberries and sugar alternately in layers. (Not too full and finish with layer of sugar on top.) Cover tightly. Bake in a slow oven, 250 degrees, for two hours. Baste with syrup several times. Pour in sterilized jars and cover.

For variation the following may be added: 4 sticks whole cinnamon, 3 teaspoons whole cloves,  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup fresh lemon juice. Recipe makes 10 to 12 pints.

IMPERIAL VALLEY CANTALOUPE PICKLES

- 4 medium size cantaloupes
- $\frac{1}{4}$  ounce powdered lime water (obtained from drug store)
- 5 pounds sugar
- 2 quarts white vinegar
- 2 tablespoons whole cloves
- $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon fennel seeds
- 1 fresh lemon
- 1 fresh lime

Cut peeled cantaloupes into  $\frac{1}{2}$  inch cubes or into fancy shapes with tiny cookie cutters. Dissolve lime in enough water to cover cantaloupe; pour over melon and soak overnight. Drain and cover with fresh water; bring to the boiling point. Drain again. Cook sugar, vinegar, cloves and fennel seeds in a cheesecloth bag for about 15 minutes. Remove spice bag; rections. (Save extra syrup for Add melon and cook until melon glazing a ham.) Store in cool, seven pints of pickles.

Slice lemon and lime as thin as possible; drop in sterilized

Put roast of beef, chicken or roast pork will be enhanced deliciously when pickled cantaloupe strips are served as an accompaniment. A slight hint of fennel gives an interesting flavor to the spiced melon. The golden translucent colored slices, neatly packed in a jar, make beautiful holiday or remembrance gifts.

- 1 tablespoon whole allspice
- $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon whole cloves
- 2 (1-2-inch) pieces ginger root
- 1 quart vinegar
- 3 cups water

- 4 quarts (1-inch) pumpkin cubes (approximately a 5- to 6-pound pumpkin)
- 1 can (6 ounces) frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed, undiluted
- Combine sugar, spices, vinegar, and water in eight-quart kettle. Bring to boil; boil until sugar dissolves. Add pumpkin and orange juice concentrate; bring to boil. Reduce heat; simmer until crisp tender (about 30 minutes). Spoon into hot sterilized jars immediately and seal. Store in cool dry place. Recipe makes four quarts.

ORANGE AND PUMPKIN CONSERVE

- 1 cup orange juice
- 2 quarts finely diced pumpkin (approximately a 3 to 4-pound pumpkin)
- $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon salt
- 5 cups sugar
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 cup prepared mince-meat
- 1 cup pecan halves

Wash oranges. Cut into small pieces with rind. Combine orange pieces, juice, pumpkin and salt in 4-quart saucepan. Cook until pumpkin is tender (about 15 minutes). # Chronological Age Not Only Nursery School Guide Line

BY DR. EVE JONES

How can I tell if my child is ready for pre-kindergarten?

Your child can't benefit from being in nursery school if he doesn't have the following abilities and inner strengths:

- (1) He must talk well enough to be able to tell the teacher what he wants and how he feels.
- (2) He must be able to separate his own belongings from those of other children.
- (3) He must be able to follow directions and to get his clothing off and on by himself with only a little assistance from the teacher.
- (4) He must have ordinary self-awareness of when he needs to use the toilet and must have the usual muscular control and coordination that's needed to use regular toilets.
- (5) He must be able to use special toilet seats or special reminders.

At Age Three

Most children meet these basic requirements when they're three years old, a few children are sufficiently mature when they're two years old and a few children aren't ready for pre-kindergarten school until they're four years old.

Your child doesn't need any other skills or talents in order to benefit from nursery school. It's part of the teacher's job to teach all the children how to use art materials and play equipment and how to play together without fighting, so you and to get his clothing off and on by himself with only a little assistance from the teacher.

Discuss Problems

Instead, talk about your child's problems with the teacher and ask her to provide the special help your child needs. And also ask her to suggest to you how you can help solve your child's problems at home — where, after all, your child's problems really arise. Most teachers today know a great deal about child psychology and can help parents prevent emotional problems if the parents will consult the teachers.

If your daily family life is upset because you have just moved into a new neighborhood or had a new child or if one of the family has been sick or has died let at least a month go by before enrolling your child in school — don't try to get him out of the way by sending him to school. A 3 or 4-year-old can't cope with two big new changes at once, and he's liable to react to being forced to handle too much by hating school as well as everything else.

If you're planning to work part-time while he's in school, put off starting your job until your child has settled down at school. Even a child who's ready for school has trouble adjusting to the new situation for the first two weeks, usually. And if you're planning to go to process you take your winners in the side suits quickly to make sure that you don't lose too many trump tricks.

When William Rosen, the well-known Chicago expert, played this hand in the recent national tournament he got the impression that West brooded over his final pass. It seemed to Rosen that West had considered a penalty double but had decided against it.

An unwary declarer would probably try an early finesse with the queen of hearts and would wind up losing two trumps, two diamonds and a spade. Rosen decided against such an incautious line of play.

West led his top diamonds and gave dummy the third diamond trick. South discarded a spade on the third diamond and ran the three club tricks before touching the trumps.

Not Dangerous
This was less dangerous than it seemed. If West had only two clubs with his known five diamonds, he would probably have three trumps and three spades. His ruff of a club would cost him a natural trump trick. Actually, the clubs went through safely. Declarer next led a trump from dummy and ducked the trick to West's nine. West could brood as much as he liked now, but he could not get out safely.

If West returned a trump or a spade, South would get a free finesse. If West returned a diamond, dummy would ruff with the ten of hearts while South discarded the jack of spades.

In addition to the lesson on how to play a difficult hand there is a moral to this little tale: Don't brood against a perceptive expert.

Daily Question
Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: S K 9 H K J 9 D A K 6 3 2 C J 4 2. What do you say?
ANSWER: Bid two diamonds. You would jump to three hearts if one of your small diamonds were a small heart. It is unsound to jump in hearts with only three-card heart support when you can describe your hand more accurately by showing the diamonds first.

Soap Making Ritual A Lost Home Art

Less than 100 years ago, many American housewives were still making soap by saving their cooking fats, boiling them in kettles on the stove and then mixing them with potash.

Since those "good old days," various refinements have made soap easier to obtain and more pleasant to use. But there were no real improvements in soap's effectiveness until 1948, the first soap to effectively reduce odor and infection-causing bacteria was made.

From the harsh product that was cooked on the back of the stove, soapmaking today has become a science.

How's that for a loveliness tip? Often set before time, pucker lines plague many women. And the trouble is triggered by habitually pursing the lips. The effect is aging, to say the least. As the grooving deepens, neat lipstick applications are impossible, for the color runs into the channels. All the while, the lip expression gives the face a forbidding aspect.

Obviously a pleasant expression of the lips has everything in its favor. It can't be topped as a preventative and remedy for pucker lines. When the lines are established, special treatments aid the soothing cause.

A good one employs moisture oil and creamy mask. You apply the oil to a cleansed face — the entire face; let it remain for a few minutes and tissue off. Next film the face with the mask and immediately flatten

Price of Bread Going Up in Expectation Farmer Will Benefit

Congress Finds Growers of Wheat Get No More Money Than in 1949

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT
WASHINGTON — The cost of bread is going up regardless of this. The wheat price support formula is finally adopted by Congress. Whether it is the version of the House that would cost an estimated $1.295 billion, or the Senate's $1.6 billion plan, after all the legislative squabbling and haggling is over, it will be the consumer who will pay in the end. Whatever the price support method, it's a case of six of one or a half-dozen of the other. That's the bluntly forthright opinion of the two top Republican members of the Senate, George Aiken from the dairy state of Vermont, and Milton Young from North Dakota, where wheat is king. "Bread prices are going up regardless of what wheat price support formula is finally agreed on by the House and Senate," says Aiken. "The reason for that is simple. The price of wheat has little bearing on the price of bread. The cost of bread has been steadily rising for years." Senator Young vigorously echoes this with detailed confirming figures. They show that bread prices have climbed steadily in the past 18 years, while in nine of those years the price of wheat fell. Also, that while bread now costs an average of 21 cents per one-pound white loaf, the wheat grower gets only 2.7 cents of bread is going up regardless of this. Says Young sharply, "The formula is finally adopted by farmer got the same 2.7 cents for his wheat in 1949, when such a loaf of bread cost consumers only 12.7 cents." Following are highlights of Young's statistical comparisons: Also cited by Young is that hourly earnings of bakery work-ers in 1963 were $1.18 higher than in 1947-49, increasing from $1.15 to $2.33 per hour. Senator Aiken stressed this as one of the underlying reasons for the steady climb of the cost of bread. The constant upward trend of production charges, including labor, distribution, advertising, etc., makes this inevitable. "Even if the farmer had donated his wheat," contends Young, "white bread still would have cost consumers around 19 cents per loaf in 1963." Senator Aiken candidly admits he prefers having consumers pay the higher wheat price than taxpayers support subsidy. "Consumers can afford to pay this cost," he holds. "The American housewife is getting a very good bargain on all the food she buys. She can afford to pay another cent for a loaf of bread, particularly when it means that farmers will benefit from the increase. It's time they got a break."

The Law and You
Court Rules Owner of Coat Must Keep Watch on Garment

Is the restaurant liable if they were charged with exercising control over it. In this case, no negligence was found on the part of the restaurant owner or the waitress. The customer was at complete liberty to retrieve his coat at any time without requesting it from the waitress. The fact that no signs were posted warning people to watch their coats and stating that the management would not be responsible for losses was immaterial. The restaurant had no employees whose duties were to safeguard or protect the garments of patrons. And it was not negligent because the only facility the restaurant provided was coat trees stand- ing in the room near the entrance. The situation might be otherwise had the restaurant operated a check-room where a customer deposited his coat in the custody of a restaurant employee and then lost it because of the employee, in permitting the wrong person to take the coat. The moral of this case thus seems to be the old rule, "Keep your eye on your hat and coat."

The customer sued the restaurant to recover damages for the loss of his overcoat, gloves, and keys on the grounds that he had delivered to the restaurant for safe keeping his coat and that the restaurant had failed to care for it and through its negligence and carelessness the coat was lost. The Supreme Court said that before a restaurant keeper will be held liable for the loss of a coat of a customer while he takes a meal, it must appear that either the coat was placed in the physical custody of the restaurant keeper or his servants, or that the coat was laid aside under circumstances showing notice of the fact and necessity to the restaurant operator or his servants that

Scientists Honor Gambler Who Founded Smithsonian

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY (will speak. Seminars will range from physics to changing trends in art.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists and scholars from around the globe are gathering to celebrate the birth 200 years ago of James Smithson, an English gentleman who became the first Duke of Northumberland, and Elizabeth Macie, wealthy widow descended from kings.

On discovering that she was pregnant, the mother discreetly retired from fashionable Bath to Paris, where the boy was born in 1765, exact date unknown.

Insatiable Curiosity

He grew up to be a geologist-chemist, a man of insatiable curiosity, a fellow of the Royal Society at the age of 22. He discovered a mineral now called smithsonite; he invented a method of brewing coffee akin to the modern vacuum-drip system.

Worldwide Ceremonies

Big, brightly colored tents have been pitched on the Mall outside the "Red Castle," the original Smithsonian building. There on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, ceremonies will be held, attended by learned men from 90 countries, including Communists.

Chief Justice Earl Warren

Though his friends worried, he was far from broke when he died at Genoa on June 27, 1829. His will left his fortune to a nephew, with the proviso that if the latter died childless (which he did), the money was to go to America to found an "establishment for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men."

Thus it was that in 1838, the clipper Mediator put in at Philadelphia, carrying in its hold gold sovereigns worth $508,000. The mystery is: Why did Smithson make such a will?

Was it because the British Parliament, granting him citizenship at the age of 10, gave him the back of its hand? It debarred that he never could be an officer in army or navy, sit in Parliament, or enjoy crown grants.

Was it because of his admiration for Franklin, Jefferson and democracy? He called kings an "encumbrance."

Or was it the "grand style" gesture of a plunger? Nobody knows.

For 11 years Congress debated what, if anything, to do with this gift from a Britisher. Men still alive could remember the Revolution and, of course, the War of 1812. John C. Calhoun wanted to reject the bequest, as beneath the nation's dignity. But John Quincy Adams, arguing for Smithson's goal, carried the day.

Money Gifts

Hence the Smithsonian, magnet for many other gifts and congressional appropriations down the years.

Its collections, ranging from the Hope diamond to every species of clam known to man, have a book value of a billion dollars.

The National Gallery of Art, product of the generosity of Andrew Mellon and others, is the "jewel in the Smithsonian's crown." Another is the Freer Gallery, containing Whistler's "Peacock Room."

Dinosaur fanciers date on the Smithsonian. There also one can study radioactive dust on film, or the last dulcimer made in North Carolina.

The industrial revolution repeats itself as sightseers turn cranks or push buttons to work machines. They wonder how the Wright brothers ever dared to fly that flimsy aeroplane.

Star Spangled Banner

The sightseers gaze, usually in silence, at the Star-Spangled Banner which flew over Ft. M'Henry at Baltimore during the British bombardment of Sept. 13 and 14, 1814 — 151 years ago this week.

Visitors to the zoo in Rock Creek Park may see the only white tiger in the United States, and momodo dragons, large lizards.

Traveling exhibits traverse the United States. Smithsonian archeologists dig in Egypt and Israel.

Explorers associated with the Smithsonian penetrated the uncharted West, helped persuade Congress to buy Alaska. Now Smithsonianians rescue Indian artifacts from lands soon to be flooded by dams.

The Smithsonian was the nation's first weather man. It financed Robert H. Goddard, "father of rocketry" and thus an usher-in of the space age.

Public exhibits are only a fraction of the Smithsonian. The accent is on research. S. Dillon Ripley, present secretary, says the idea is to tackle unfashionable studies. If they turn up something practical, the work can be spun off into other hands.

Ike Considered Resigning After Stroke

NATO Conference Treated as Test Of Health Status

NEW YORK (AP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower said that after his stroke in 1957 he considered resigning as president because of doubts that he could bear the burden of office, the New York Times said Monday.

The former president made the disclosure in his new book, "Waging Peace, 1956-1960," the second volume of his presidential memoirs, "The White House Years," and expanded on it in an interview at Gettysburg, Pa., with Times reporter Robert H. Phelps.

He recalled that he had told only his wife, his son, his doctor and close associates of a plan to test his capacity to carry on after the stroke.

Strenuous Activity

The test he set for himself was to attend, over the protests of doctors, family and friends, a conference of the North American Treaty Organization in Paris. If he could successfully participate in the strenuous activities he would stay on as president. Otherwise he would resign.

The book, to be published by Doubleday & Co., describes how the president passed his self-imposed test.

In the Sunday Times, Eisenhower said he does not see how NATO can survive if France carries out her plan for ending the alliance's joint military command.

He said the only alternative in the present setup would be a coalition of separate forces. "Coalitions in the past have always failed," he said.

Boat Fleet Owner Denies Charge

WAUPACA — Duane Mielke, 40, owner of a fleet of houseboats in Fremont, Tuesday pleaded innocent of two conservation law violations when he appeared before Municipal Justice George Whalen.

Mielke was charged with operating a boat with sanitary facilities that had no storage tanks and of operating a boat not properly numbered. He was arrested by Conservation Department authorities Aug. 7 on the Wolf River near Weyauwega.

Justice Whalen set trial for 10 a.m. Oct. 13.

Mielke posted a $200 bond.

New Era to Start When Red China Gets Bomb

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — There are now two wars, which make these days look like the same old bubbling and boiling the world has lived through for 20 years, but future men may consider them simply the end of an era.
The new era begins when Red China finally has a supply of nuclear bombs. It has had its test explosions and now can be considered to be in the process of perfecting its weapons.
The 20 years since World War II have seen a greater transformation in the composition of the world than any similar period in history.

Breathless Moments
A multitude of new nations came into existence; colonialism all but ended; the development of nuclear weapons has made all previous weapons look like matches; man has moved into space; Russian communism and the Western world went through breathless moments in tests of strength; and both sides became mature enough to forsake tensions, at least for a while.

But the maturity was achieved through fear, not philosophy, since both sides have weapons powerful enough to eliminate each other. Through their rival strengths they were compelled to respect each other's power of destruction.
In time a fully armed China might be expected to feel the same. But at best this can be only a hope and the indications from Red China now are the opposite.

Red China

In these past years, despite its buffings, puffings and machinations, Red China, because of its feeble and old-fashioned weaponry, has had to stand pretty much on the sidelines, growling maledictions but afraid of a showdown in which it would be fatally outclassed by the infinitely superior power of the United States and the Soviet Union.
The years since the Communists took over China in 1949 have been the foundation years in which they had to move slowly over a tortuous poverty road, organizing both government and industry, until at last they could emerge on that high plateau where they might hope to match their opponents.

But, once they have their arsenal of nuclear destruction, they can abandon their studied role of the reluctant dragon and begin to move far more directly than they have ever dared so far.

Dominate Asia

And when that time comes they will, no doubt, feel freer and safer to assert dominance over the rest of Asia as a starting point toward the communization of the world they only talk of now. When that time comes, and as they move, the United States, for one, will have to ask itself a question which was not a problem before.

Is it worth risking nuclear war to save, say, a place like far-off Formosa which the Red Chinese have always claimed but so far feared to take?

Troubled as these past 20 years have been, they may look like a time of comparative peace when considered against the years ahead. If this sounds ominous, the Red Chinese themselves have given warning.

Hunger for War

Earlier this month one of their top officials, Marshal Lin Biao, the defense minister, spelled it out in a statement long enough to fill at least one whole newspaper page. All he said expressed hunger for war against the West.

He went beyond simply urging revolutions in Africa, Asia and Latin America, steadily creeping up on the Western world to strangle it and always with encouragement and help from Red China.

Revolutionary Zeal

He said, "U.S. imperialism has (nuclear) weapons, but others have them, too. If it threatens other countries with nuclear weapons, U.S. imperialism will expose its own country to the same threat."

Red China's present leaders have been forging their revolution since the 1920s. They are old but they have never lost a revolutionary's fanatic zeal. There is always the possibility that when they finally die their successors, who never endured their hardships, will be more moderate.

But the Red marshal, anticipating such a hope, said:

"It is sheer day-dreaming for anyone to think that since our revolution has been victorious, our national construction is forging ahead, our national wealth is increasing, and our living conditions are improving, we will lose our revolutionary fighting will, abandon the cause of world revolution..."

Judy Garland Sings Despite Cast, Skunk

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Singer Judy Garland completed most of her opening performance at the Greek Theater, despite the hindrances of a cast on one arm and a skunk in the audience.

Miss Garland said Tuesday

Wednesday, Sept. 15, 1965

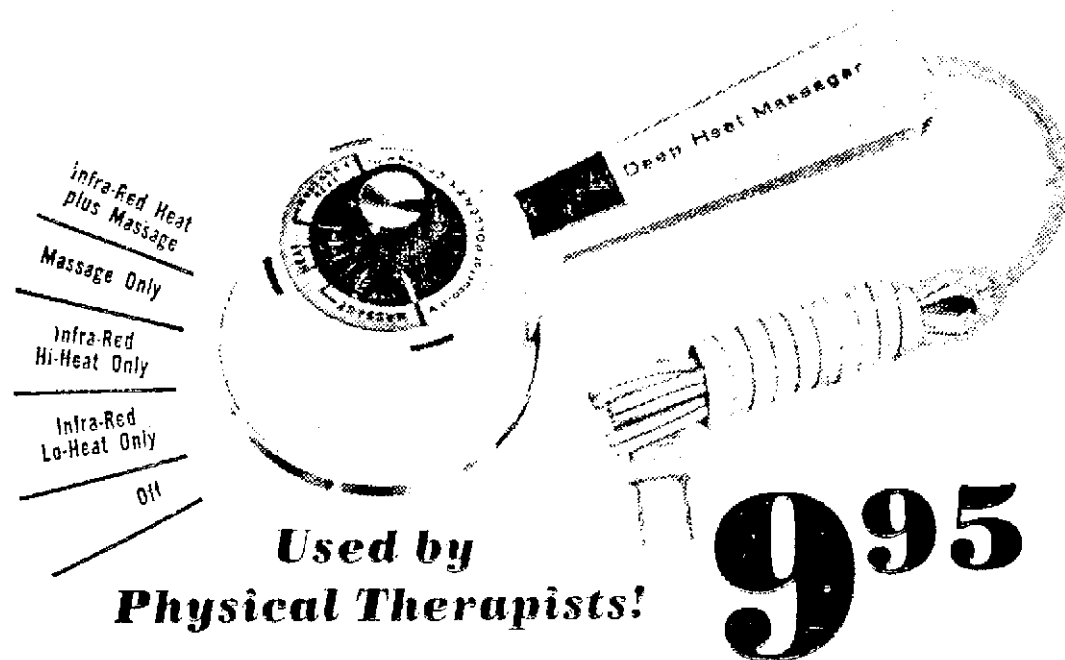

night she would do all of the show she could after suffering two fractures of her left arm when she tripped over her dog at home, according to her fiancé, Mark Herron.
Actor Mickey Rooney, singer Johnny Mathis and comedienne Martha Raye, did short runs, joined Miss Garland in a few, then let the star go it alone.
"She received a great ovation," said Rex Waggoner, spokesman for the theater. "She sang six songs and did a duet with Martha Raye." Rooney, Mathis and Miss Raye had volunteered to fill in for Miss Garland if she was unable to go on. Herron said his fiancée had been under heavy sedation all day.
Waggoner said the skunk "really topped off the evening. He just wandered into the audience, but he didn't let fly with his weapon. He just walked out again."

Twins Log 4-3 Win Over A's, Reduce Magic Number to 7

Chisox, Orioles Trail Minnesota By 10 Games; Yanks Triumph

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The American League pennant may spell bread and butter to the Minnesota Twins but to the Minneapolis post office it spells jam.

The Twins whipped Kansas City 4-3 Tuesday night, lengthening their American League lead to 10 games, reducing their magic pennant-clinching number to seven and sending thousands of fans out into the streets for a midnight march on the main post office.

"I never say anything like it," said one post office employee. "It's worse than income tax time."

But it was just World Series ticket time. The Twins began accepting ticket orders dated Tuesday and thousands of people began to ring the post office on Tuesday night to get the advance tag of an early post mark.

The Angels put the game out to reach with a five-run explosion against the White Sox in the eighth inning but the big run came in the third inning when Paul Schaal singled, moved to second on a wild pitch, took third on an infield out and scored the tie-breaking run on another wild pitch by Juan Pizarro.

Rookies Bobby Murcer and Rick Beck played key roles for the Yankees. Murcer hit a two-run homer in the seventh inning for his first major league hit and Beck, making his first major league start, got the victory. Murcer's homer was only the second hit off Senators' starter Jim Duckworth.

The Red Sox pulled into a tie in the ninth when Tony Horton hit a bases-empty homer, then won in the 10th when Carl Yastrzemski led off with a homer. Yastrzemski went 1-for-4 and maintained his five-point lead over Minnesota's Oliva in the race for the AL batting championship.

Wrightstown and Denmark, two of the unbeaten, clash Thursday night on the Denmark field. In another Thursday night game, Reedsville visits Shiocton, and both teams will be looking for their initial victory.

Afternoon games Friday will have Hortonville at Hilbert and Winneconne at Freedom, while Brillion will be at Omro Friday night. Feature tilt of the three will be at Freedom where each team will be after its second straight triumph.

Denmark displayed a lot of early promise with its 19-0 victory over highly-regarded Hilbert last week. Darrold Hansen was the star of the win for the Vikings with a pair of touchdowns and an extra point. Hilbert failed to get a sustained drive underway in the rain-marred contest.

Wrightstown took advantage of a pair of breaks to score a 8-0 win over Brillion in the latter's first taste of conference play last week. Brillion is a new team in the league this season. The Tigers downed a bad pass from center in the end zone for a safety and blocked a punt to set up their lone touchdown.

Winneconne rolled to a 33-0 win over Shiocton last week, the highest score in the opening round.

A physician said Tuesday an autopsy showed that the boy died of a tumor on the right side of the brain.

Redskins Get Lions' Dess

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

You don't need a partner and musical accompaniment is strictly optional. Just clutch a suitcase tightly in each hand and commit the latest plane schedules to the other 13 National Football League cities to memory. You're ready to do the NFL shuffle.

Darrell Dess, one of the league's top offensive guards, who spent six years playing in New York, is the newest expert of the fad that fed on NFL cut-downs Tuesday.

Dess, traded by the Giants to Detroit just two weeks ago in the Earl Morrall deal, was changing uniforms again today after being swapped by the Lions to Washington for quarterback George Izo and offensive guard Ted Karras.

Karras had been traded to the Redskins by Chicago last week but had refused to report to Washington and asked to be dealt to Detroit where his brother, Alex, is a top defensive tackle.

Another shuffler is Billy Lohridge, the former Georgia Tech quarterback and punter who was traded by Dallas to Baltimore two weeks ago for Ralph Neely.

The Colts trimmed Lohridge and two other players, defensive tackle John Diehl and defensive end Roosevelt Davis, to reach the 40-man limit Tuesday.

Thompson Cut
Don Thompson, a defensive end, knows all the shuffle steps too. Dealt by Philadelphia to Dallas just two weeks ago, Thompson was also cut Tuesday as the Cowboys trimmed their roster. The Cowboys also dropped rookie defensive back Ernie Kellerman.

Washington, in addition to sending Izo and Karras to Detroit, dropped veteran running back Tom Tracy and offensive tackle Steve Barnett.

Poygan Group To Sponsor 2 Trap Shoots

TUSTIN—The first in a series of competitive trap shoots with the awarding of merchandise prizes will be sponsored by the Poygan Restoration Association Sunday.

Trap shooting will begin at 10 a.m. this Sunday Sept. 26, his tee-shot into the cup on the and Oct. 3 at the group's farm, two miles east of West Bloomington on Highway HH. Events are open to the public, according to Dale Ludlike and Lavern Michels, committeemen.

A rifle range is being prepared by the membership. From the lowland area on the farm dirt filling is being reclaimed to form a bank 75 feet long and 15 feet high.

Although most events are open to the public, the association is limiting its membership to 350 sportsmen. The group raised about 350 pheasants, which are to be released in October.

Help for Johnson

Cardinals Hire Layne As Quarterback Coach

By MIKE RECHT
ST. LOUIS (AP) — "It's only a short step from second to first place in the National Football League," Bobby Layne said Tuesday.

That's why the former All-Pro quarterback was in St. Louis.

Although some people feel Layne is that step away from being a championship quarterback, the Cardinals insist he can lead them to the title. However, they admitted Tuesday there is room for improvement.

They hired Layne, a rough and ready signal caller who commanded attention on the field, to tutor the 26-year-old Johnson. It didn't represent any lack of confidence in Johnson. "We're quite satisfied with Charley," said Coach Wally Lemm. "Layne won't work on anything in particular, but anything, any way he can improve Charley's play."

Stormy Bidwill, president of the club, said the Cardinals have been looking for a quarterback coach for almost two years.

"We've talked about (Bob) Waterfield," he said, "but he did not want to get back into coaching. When Layne quit Pittsburgh, we went after him." Johnson, after a lackluster exhibition season in which he hit only 45.3 per cent of his passes and had six intercepted, welcomed Layne.

Trying As Free Agent

Hackbart, a star at Wisconsin, had been cut by Washington and was trying out as a free agent with the Vikings. Taylor came in a summer trade with New York and Lester was a ninth round draft choice in 1964.

San Francisco released Vern Burke, onetime star end from Oregon State; Los Angeles dropped defensive back Herman Johnson from Michigan, guard Roger Davis from Syracuse and linebacker Ed Holler from South Carolina, and Green Bay sliced tackle Eli Strand of Iowa State.

Philadelphia asked waivers on defensive back Bob Shann and offensive end Bill Cronin; St. Louis cut tight ends Tax Anderson and Ray Ogden and guard Frank Roy; and Pittsburgh dropped five players, tackles Bob Toniff and Frank Mallick, linebackers Bob Harrison and Bob Schmitz, and back Pat Batten.

Redwing Protest Upheld; Madison Victory Voided
RACINE (AP)—A ruling by Central States Football League Commissioner Frank Bonk has given Sheboygan its first victory this season in the semi-pro loop.

Carm Papara, league public relations director, said Tuesday that Bonk upheld a protest by Sheboygan, voiding a 21-6 loss to Madison Sept. 4 and awarding the Redwings a 7-0 victory over the Mustangs.

Papara said end Chuck Elliot, who has been living in Madison, was used by the Mustangs while still under contract to Sheboygan. Elliot had not been given a formal release from Sheboygan.

The ruling now gives Madison, West Allis and Sheboygan identical 1-3 records and a share of second place in the northern division. Manitowoc tops the division with a 3-1 mark.

Minneapolis dropped three players, defensive back Dale Hackbart, defensive end Bob Taylor and fullback Darrell Lester.

Tony Taylor made a leaping catch of John Blanchard's line shot toward right for the final out in the seventh to prevent Mathews from scoring.

Meanwhile, San Francisco was edging Houston 7-5 in 10 innings for the Giants' 12th straight victory. The Braves' Gonder grounded out, but Taylor met the Giants for three home runs, but the gap between first and fourth places suddenly appeared insurmountable.

Fischer and Denny Lemaster, who hurled the final three innings, allowed only four more hits after Callison's homer, but Bunning already had all the hitting aid he needed.

After Gonder's double, he retired 15 batters in a row. None of them got the ball out of the infield. Six of them struck out.

Mathews doubled to left in the seventh—only the third time the Braves got a ball into the outfield the entire game. Jack Jones had fied out as leadoff batter in the first and that and the two doubles were the sole evidence of power by the team

Unscramble Five Names For a Big Set of Magic

BY CAPPY DICK RYLAND

GIRLS: How would you like to become the owner of a big boxful of 20 magic tricks enough to stage a show that will mystify your family and friends? Here's your chance! Just such an outfit, the Hocus Focus Magic Set manufactured by S. S. Adams company, pioneer in the making of magical equipment, will be given away as the national grand prize in today's puzzle contest. In fact, five Hocus Focus sets will be awarded, one to each young reader whose contest entry is chosen by judges as one of the five nearest to most original correct entries from all the cities where this column for boys and girls is published.

There is another prize to be won, too. It is a qualifying prize offered for the 5 correct entries that are the nearest and most original in appearance sent in by boys and girls of the Fox Valley area. This qualifying prize is a magic trick, too, a mystifying Imp Bottle, gravele, irritate, trouble. When you know the secret, you will learn if you win three times and it is yours! the prize -- you can place the Imp Bottle on its side and it by mastering one word each will remain there. But for all day. Today's word anthology, a others it will not remain on its contradiction in terms or ideas side, instead it will instantly pop upright. Only your command will be obeyed. By was full of antiques."

winning a qualifying prize your entry will be included in the judging at the national level for the Hocus Focus outfit. To try for a prize, clip out the picture above that shows the five pennants with seemingly meaningless letters printed on them. Paste it on paper or a postal card. Study the pennants and one if you can unscramble the letters to spell the names of five states. Print those names beneath the picture. Also print your name, age and address. With paints, crayons, cutouts or other means, decorate your entry in any neat, original way. Address it to Cappy Dick's Midweek Contest at the Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow. This completes your work. Everything else is up to the contest judges. Names of the prize winners will be published here and their awards will be sent to their homes by mail. Judges' decisions will be final. All entries become Cappy Dick's property and none can be returned. Thursday: A funny plaque made of artificial fruit!

Jingo Reports Some Promise to First Programs; Nothing Spectacular Yet

BY JINGO

Some promise, but not a great deal of substance, was observed in the new television shows which debuted Monday night. The strength of the six new entries leaves Jingo with the feeling that the returning shows are in for successful seasons; the competition is just not that tough.

The Steve Lawrence Show... Considered as an unrelated show is promising. But taken in the context of the rest of the Monday night schedule, Steve has a long way to go before he approaches the professionalism of TV hosting that Andy Williams, who precedes him on a different network, has attained. So much depends on whom he has as guest stars and Jingo is afraid it will take more than Lucille Ball riding on a pink elephant and romping with the porpoises to attract a weekly audience. The competition is tough, too, with "Run for Your Life" and "Ben Casey" appearing opposite Steve.

Run for Your Life - The premise may be patterned after that of "The Fugitive," but the west history. Now they want production is reminiscent of the A-movies of the 'thirties. This is the story of Paul Bryan (Ben Gazzara), who has been given only two years to live, and who promptly sets out to live it up. The first episode, told in elaborate settings and with some exquisitely photographed skiing sequences, had hero Bryan showing up a deposed Latin American strong man (Robert Loggia) during a high-stakes gambling game while both were snowbound in an exclusive Swiss resort. Although the opener was not entirely successful, it did show that there are some keen minds at work here. The violence was pleasantly muted, and the general approach intelligent.

A Man Called Shenandoah - In "The Fugitive," David Janssen is looking for a murderer; in "Run for Your Life," Ben Gazzara is running away from the murderer. Rob-Horton is looking for a murderer who has killed his wife. Suffering amnesia he attained when a bullet creased his skull, Horton will spend the next 36 weeks (and maybe more) trying to find out who he is. (Yawn) You can be sure there will be a major obstacle each week. If that bullet had only gone an inch lower, viewers would have been spared the search.

The John Forsythe Show - Let ace John Forsythe descend from the clouds to find himself the sole owner and proprietor of a private girls' school in the first episode of his handsomely produced but color-laden situation comedy. The actors, especially Elsa Lanchester and Ann R. Davis, are attractive and skilled, and the pacing, at least in the initial show, was top-flight. Less could be said for the script, which dished up gooey mounds of whipped cream with only a few crumbs of the cake it was supposed to adorn. Definitely not for dieters.

Legend of Jesse James - Hang on to your easy chairs, fans, and get ready for another disorienting romp through old new adventure series, revolves around the sleuthing of Robert Cluh and Bill Cosby, two very hip secret agents. Dialogue is frank, and so is the action. First episode has the boys wandering around Hong Kong, trying to solve a mystery. Dialogue is a little stilted, but the action is first class. (Premiere-Color)

8-9 (Channels 4-5) - The Hope Presents "The Game," a drama it has been saving for some time (it was scheduled last season) which delivers a lot less than it should have.

9-10 (Channels 2, 7, 12) - The Danny Kaye Show returns with a highly musical session that benefits greatly by a bravura performance by Harry Belafonte, who, besides a solo eight-minute spot, joins his host in "Mama Look A Bohoo." (Season Premiere-Color)

9-10 (Channels 4-5) - I Spy, a

Consider Merits Of Different Days of Week

Friday Thought To be Better Boon To Man Than Dog

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Friends, let us consider the days of the week. Which is the best?
The earnest thinker long has considered Friday as a better boon to man than the dog.

No survivor of the work week can successfully challenge this conclusion.

But I would like to put in a word for Wednesday. It is the true day when mankind stands upon the summit of himself. It is the day of absolute human integrity.

All days have their reasons for being. Let us consider their values.

Eager Beaver Day
Monday is the pal of the eager beaver and the foe of the tired beaver.

Monday is liked by people who study yoga, who enjoy beating their freedom against a discipline, who swim in the surf off Coney Island in the winter and get their pictures in the papers for doing so.

For the rest of humanity Monday is a long ugh-h-h. It is a day when childhood goes back to school, man to his duty, and woman considers what to do with last week's laundry.

Those who consider the virtues of Tuesday, I am afraid, must face the fact that it is really at most an escapist's adavance beyond Monday. Its only to yourself why you haven't done so far this week what you don't intend to do on Friday.

Borrow Money
It isn't important whether a man really needs the money. Nobody who is asked to lend money on Tuesday asks what it's for. He may demand a reason any other day—but never on Tuesday. He will simply fork out.

We now skip to Thursday. Saturday is for going to football games, admiring the way your wife cuts the grass, or artfully raking fallen leaves so that the wind will blow them into your neighbor's yard. It is also a great night to watch late shows on television while you wonder what part of the town your children are painting crimson.

Sunday is for considering heaven and endeavor and brooding about the inconsideration of a divine injustice that has ordained Monday as the next day. It also is the best day to jump in the family buggy and make impossible journeys to far away friends who didn't expect you at the table and from whose home it takes you until midnight to return.

This, friends, leaves us the wealth of Wednesday. Wednesday is the peak of the week.

It is the necessary bridge between the ordeal of Monday and the freedom of Friday. It is the one day of the week when people can achieve purpose.

Anybody who can't get some-

Rambler Production Resumes in Spite Of New Question

KENOSHA (AP)—The United Auto Workers Local 72 returned to members Tuesday the question of deciding whether a 20-day strike against American Motors Corp. had ended officially.

While the firm resumed its production of 1966 Rambler automobiles, the executive board of the local announced a final decision on the legality of the settlement vote would be made Sept. 24. An official said the decision would be placed in the hands of the members.

There was no elaboration on whether this meant another vote would be conducted on the question of upholding the original 2,558-1,522 ratification vote Saturday.

Complaint Rejected

The board had ruled earlier the settlement would stand. It rejected a formal complaint filed by 50 members who charged multiple voting and other ballooning irregularities in the original tabulations.

Nearly 17,000 workers were back on the job at assembly plants here and the American Motors body plant in Milwaukee Tuesday as cars began rolling off the lines again.

A National Labor Relations Board spokesman said the federal agency had no jurisdiction in a related protest seeking to overturn the vote ending the record 20-day strike. The Wisconsin Employment Relations Board issued the same reply.

Union steward Elmer Beatty had sent protests to the NLRB in Washington, the WERB in Madison and the UAW headquarters in Detroit.

None Received

A spokesman for regional NLRB director George Squillacote in Milwaukee said no formal complaint had been received yet and added the NLRB had no authority to intervene anyway.

Voters Brave Foul Weather To Cast Mandate Requiring Four City Posts be Elective

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Appleton voters turned out 11,472 strong in the rain and cold Tuesday, defeating by better than 2 to 1 referenda which would have made four city offices appointive.

The electorate gave the city council a mandate to keep the post of city clerk, part-time city attorney, treasurer and assessor elective.

There was no doubt as to the outcome after early returns started to come into the city clerk's office shortly after the polls closed at 8 p.m.

"No" votes appeared across the ballot for each of the four questions.

The outcome reflected political ramifications and erased the previous action of the council which had adopted the charter ordinances.

Vote Totals

The vote totals for each of the four positions, excluding a possible downward adjustment of 100 votes in the city attorney tabulation, were as follows:

—City clerk: No, 7,995; Yes, 3,407.

—Attorney: No, 8,007; Yes, 3,367.

—Treasurer: No, 7,938; Yes, 3,355.

—Assessor: No, 7,913; Yes, 3,357.

City Clerk Elden Broehm and other election officials indicated there was a possibility one of the voting machines in the 3rd Ward may have registered an extra 100 "no" votes in the city attorney column. This would cut that total to 7,907.

The machine correctly showed 455 persons cast ballots but the 3rd Ward totals of 71 Yes and 462 No votes did not jibe.

However, in the case of the other three offices the vote totals ran 76-375, 73-370 and 74-371.

Absentee Ballots

There were an estimated 300 absentee ballots cast in the special election which had slightly more than 2,850 persons voting as of noon.

During mid-afternoon and early evening residents turned out in light-to-heavy showers in what observers considered "a very good response."

Opponents of the charter changes drove home their claim that if the four positions were made appointive, voting rights would be taken away and the mayor and council end up with the power.

Those associated with the "yes" vote campaign relied heavily on explanations of the four charter ordinances and the need for getting the most qualified persons for the four administrative posts through a

Level of Negro Employment Brings Concern

State Industrial Commission Notes Some Discrimination

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The State Industrial Commission expressed concern Tuesday over an apparently low level of employment of Negroes as desk clerks, bartenders and waitresses in hotels and motels.

"There's nobody in the front of the house, so to speak," said Joseph C. Fagan, commission chairman. "Everybody is in the back."

Fagan added, "I don't want to suggest that it's intentional. The point is it at least looks like there might be some discrimination."

Commissioner Gene Rowland said if Negroes can see members of their race in jobs at the front, "there's a different outlook on the thing."

"Don't Care for Riots" "We don't care for riots and we don't want a situation where Negroes feel a hopelessness," said Fagan.

Representatives of 11 major Milwaukee area hotels and motor inns appeared at the commission hearing. None listed Negro waitresses, although two said they had Negro waiters.

All but one listed Negro employees, ranging in number from 4 to 80, but the majority filled busboy, maid, cook and kitchen helper positions.

Fagan and Rowland, appointed to the three-member commission by Republican Gov. Warren P. Knowles, were presiding at their first hearing.

Fagan said discrimination in the North was more subtle than in the South but "just as deadly."

"We've got to get the Negro community to be motivated," he said in urging employers to alert Negroes to job opportunities.

Thousands in Area North of Saigon Held by Guerrillas

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Thousands of U.S. paratroopers and Vietnamese soldiers fanned out today in Viet Cong territory about 30 miles north of Saigon, a U.S. spokesman said.

Elements of the U.S. Army's 173rd Brigade are taking part in the joint operation launched Tuesday in an effort to establish a base for U.S. forces in an area long under guerrilla control.

The spokesman said no major contact had been made but that the allied forces drew sporadic heavily on explanations of the sniper fire. He reported no U.S. and New Zealand troops on the operation took light losses.

The area being cleared was near the district town of Ben Cat, 30 miles north of Saigon in Binh Duong Province.

With Vietnamese U.S. advisers parachuted Tuesday with 1,100 Vietnamese just northeast of Ben Cat in one phase of the operation. In another part, U.S. paratroopers and New Zealand and Australian contingents reached Ben Cat by convoy along Highway 13 on which the Viet Cong have pulled many bloody ambushes.

One truck in the convoy blew up after striking a mine and inflicted the casualties on the New Zealanders.

The parachute jump was made in driving rain and was the first by Vietnamese paratroopers since last year.

In the air war, another flight of B52 bombers from Guam hit a suspected Viet Cong installation in Zone D 30 miles northeast of Saigon in Bien Hoa Province. It was the 24th announced raid by the big planes of the U.S. Strategic Air Command.

A U.S. Navy plane on a strike in South Viet Nam crashed at sea 145 miles southwest of Saigon, and the pilot was presumed dead.

Seventeen Americans were killed in action during the week ending Sept. 11, a military spokesman said. Fifty-eight others were wounded.

Small U.S. combat units made contact 60 times with guerrillas in the same period, triple the number of the previous week.

Twenty-one Viet Cong were reported killed in four scattered clashes with Vietnamese units.

Elements of the U.S. Army's 101st Airborne Division reported wounding three Viet Cong and seizing 26 suspects in a two-day operation north of An Khe in the central highlands. No American losses were reported.

Washington Studies Surprise Peace Move Of Pakistani Official

Ayub Says U. S. Could Have Ended Kashmir Woe, Prevented War, in 1962

AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Ayub's foreign minister, Z. A. Bhutto, had said in a speech in Pakistan that his nation was Khan as offering a possible new opening for diplomacy to end the fighting between Pakistan and India.

Initially, U.S. policy makers could not be sure whether Ayub was intent upon creating such an opening or whether he was merely trying to put blame on the United States for the conflict over Kashmir.

The initial reaction among high officials here was that Ayub's maneuver, which took the form of a statement at a news conference, was worth exploring seriously.

Definite Role

Ayub told newsmen: "The United States can play a very definite role by telling India and Pakistan she will not stand for this struggle. She could have brought it (a solution of the Kashmir dispute) about in 1962 and could have brought it about today."

It seemed likely the statement would draw some early response from the White House or President Johnson personally.

Only a few hours earlier, Ayub's foreign minister, Z. A. Bhutto, had said in a speech in Pakistan that his nation was Khan as offering a possible new opening for diplomacy to end the fighting between Pakistan and India. As he put it: "We have made our final choice — victory or disaster."

Thant Returns

Coinciding with the Ayub and Bhutto developments, U.N. Secretary-General U Thant was winding up his cease-fire efforts in India and Pakistan and returning directly to New York.

This came as a surprise to U.S. policy makers who had understood that Thant would extend his stay in the Asian subcontinent.

Ayub's statement that his government was willing to negotiate conditions for a plebiscite in Kashmir could be interpreted as conciliatory; a parallel comment that Pakistan would not agree to return to the old cease-fire line in Kashmir seemed on the surface to be a barrier against ending hostilities.

The United States has been pleading with both sides in public statements and private contacts since the fighting started. Peace pleas have also been entered by the Soviet Union, Britain and other powers except Red China which has strongly supported Pakistan against India and sought to inflame the war.

The United States is a major supplier of economic aid to both India and Pakistan. It has already cut off military shipments to both countries and could, at least in theory, take such action in respect to economic assistance. This, however, the President has been reluctant to do.

Major Fear

One reason is that he does not wish to put any pressure on either country which would make conditions worse while possibly failing to end the conflict. A major U.S. fear has been the passions of the war would stir up communal violence between Hindus and Moslems living as neighbors throughout the subcontinent. Worsening economic conditions could sharpen this danger.

Another major consideration by Johnson has been to keep full U.S. support behind the search for a cease-fire through the United Nations and Thant's mission to New Delhi and Rawalpindi. The President, it was learned Tuesday, has been stalling off decisions on pressures which could be brought through the U.S. aid programs in order to allow full opportunity for Thant to play out completely his own diplomatic role.

Agreement Forecast

Johnson Farm Bill Clears Senate, Heads for Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate managers of the Johnson administration's farm bill predicted today that a final compromise on the two versions of the legislation will be worked out satisfactorily.

The Senate cleared the four-year measure Tuesday by a 72-22 vote after revising it in four days of floor debate to conform more closely to the administration's views.

The final version won support of 56 Democrats and 16 Republicans while 14 Republicans and 8 Democrats voted against it.

The bill had cleared the House 221 to 172 on Aug. 19.

Opponents and backers of the Senate and House bills have never agreed on specific costs of the multibillion-dollar measures.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., and Rep. Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C., who will lead the respective Senate and House delegations in the conference measure, said they were confident the differences could be settled without great difficulty.

The wheat provisions lead the list of major differences in the two versions. There also are significant variances on cotton, dairy and rice sections.

Senate sponsors said they believe the bill as finally passed in their branch is balanced as carefully as possible between boosting farmers' income and restricting production so that present surpluses can be cut back.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., called it the "finest farm program we have seen in years." He said the Senate bill "reverses the downward trend of net farm income and sets a new course toward parity," particularly on wheat.

Too Costly

Agriculture Department spokesmen said the Senate bill is close to administration thinking except that it is much too costly.

Indications were the administration would try to cut back on the cost of the wheat and cotton programs in the conference.

The Senate wheat provisions would give growers an over-all return of $1.90 a bushel compared with $1.81 in the House bill and $1.69 under the 1965 program.

This would cost $400 million a year more than the administration proposal.

Key Feature

A key feature of the bill is the new cotton program fixing price support loans at about the world market price of 21 cents a pound and boosting the income of the grower with direct subsidy payments amounting to 9 or more cents a pound.

The two versions are close together on this program.

Damage, Injuries

Violent Weather Hits Peoria, Ill., Midwest

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tornadoes and severe thunderstorms hammered wide areas in the nation's midsection Tuesday night, with violent weather in Peoria, Ill., injuring at least 28 persons and causing property damage estimated at $1 million.

The severe storms battered sections of central and north-eastern Illinois, northern and central Indiana and parts of Iowa, Missouri and lower Michigan.

The storm described by the Peoria Weather Bureau as a "possible tornado," virtually destroyed the Norwood Elementary School near Peoria, a city of more than 100,000. Forty-three persons, including 25 pupils, huddled in the basement as the storm struck. No one was hurt. Damage was estimated at $500,000.

Coke Plant

The storm flattened the Coca-Cola Bottling Co. plant, caused an estimated $250,000 damage to the Union Stockyards and heavy damage to a Hiram Walker plant. Several homes were damaged, trees were uprooted and power and telephone service was disrupted.

At Bellevue, near Peoria, the damaging winds unroofed the Bellevue Nursing Home and 60 persons were evacuated. Two persons were injured near Watseka, Ill.

In Indiana tornadoes were reported at Tippecanoe, Boone, Clinton, Howard and Johnson counties. No injuries were reported and property damage was light. Gusts winds and heavy rain struck Lafayette and one person suffered a severe electrical shock when he walked into the flooded basement of his home. Several intersections were flooded to a depth of four feet. More than 4½ inches of rain drenched the city in six hours.

Other Storms

Severe wind storms also swept the Battle Creek, Mich., area and in central and southwestern Missouri.

Record breaking heat marks were reported Tuesday in parts of Oklahoma and Texas, with 107 at Wichita Falls, Tex., 103 at Tulsa and 102 at Oklahoma City, Okla.

Snow fell early today at Cut Bank, Mont., as the mercury dropped to freezing. The cold air extended across northern border states. The early morning high reading was 90 at Thermal, in the California desert.

Fire Truck Firm Using Parts From Seagrave

Ohio Company to Put Components On Other Chasses

CLINTONVILLE — FWD Corp. has signed a contract with Timmons Metal Products Co. (Timpeco), Columbus, Ohio, for the manufacture of Seagrave commercial fire trucks by the Ohio firm.

Manufacture of the Seagrave custom line, which amounts to approximately 90 per cent of the volume, will continue at the Clintonville plant. FWD bought the Seagrave fire equipment operation and moved it to Clintonville from Columbus several years ago.

Company officials explained that the commercial line would include Seagrave equipment — ladders, pumps, fittings and other equipment — mounted on a chassis of the customer's choice. The Seagrave custom line is manufactured from the ground up at the Clintonville plant. Timpeco will buy the Seagrave components for its operation from the Clintonville plant.

The Timpeco operation will provide a second, lower priced line for Seagrave representatives and distributors, company officials said. Commercial fire trucks often are purchased by volunteer and rural fire departments.

Medina School Put Up for Sale

Last of One-Room Brick Structures No Longer Needed

NEW LONDON—Sale of the Medina School was approved by the New London Board of Education Monday.

The school was the last vacant building owned by the district. Four unused school buildings were sold last year by the district. The Medina building was retained then in case it was needed.

Construction of the Readfield and Sugar Bush Elementary Schools left the Medina School meeting in July, will include a vacant. Completion of the new library-study hall over the senior high school for the present old gymnasium and new 1966-67 school term will reduce crowded conditions in the present school buildings.

Bids on the school will be on the Oct. 11 board meeting in the high school. The project will be financed by the brick building is about with $200,000 from Channer 60 by 75 feet with a basement. Newman Securities Co., Chicago originally was a one-room school house until the basement was remodeled to add a classroom.

Testing Schedule at New London Disrupted

NEW LONDON—Scheduled testing of juniors at Washington High School had to be postponed until Sept. 21-22 because the tests were not received on time. J. N. Wells, guidance director, said the tests arrived late Tuesday morning, too late for the testing. Juniors were scheduled to take the tests Tuesday and Wednesday at the American Legion and VFW clubs.

Freshmen will take the tests Thursday and Friday as scheduled, Wells said.

Purchase Playground Equipment at Potter

POTTER — The Potter Community Association has purchased the Potter School's playground equipment from the Hilbert School district.

It will be painted and repaired and moved to the Fireman's Park in the village. The slide was not sold. It will be relocated on the Hilbert elementary school playground.

The equipment originally was purchased by Potter taxpayers when the district was independent.

Bid Opening for Chilton High Addition Scheduled Sept. 24

Combination Library, Study Hall; Science Area to Cost $200,000

CHILTON — Bids for construction of the Chilton High school addition, estimated at $200,000, will be opened at 2 p.m. Sept. 24 in the high school's old gymnasium. Supt. A. W. Gordon announced today.

The addition, authorized at the school district's annual meeting in July, will include a new library-study hall over the present old gymnasium and new science laboratories above the band rooms. The roof of the old gym will be raised for construction on the same level as the second floor.

The project will be financed by the brick building is about with $200,000 from Channer 60 by 75 feet with a basement. Newman Securities Co., Chicago originally was a one-room school house until the basement was remodeled to add a classroom.

Gordon also announced the money received from Channer-Newman has been reinvested in treasury notes.

Purchase of a stroboscope for use in the band and vocal music departments with money from the Klinkner band account, was approved on request of Marvin Hoffmann, band director.

According to Hoffmann, the instrument can be obtained for $655. It will be used for tuning band instruments and can be used by individuals to determine whether they are playing notes on pitch.

The new instrument will take a student up the chromatic scale without any manual adjustment.

Hoffmann explained that due to increased band size it is no longer possible for him to tune the band by playing along with the students.

Plan Lease

The board voted to sell the Carryall wagon for $1,000 and to lease a similar vehicle from the Daun Co., which owns the school buses, at 5 cents per mile plus gasoline and oil. Maintenance will be handled by the company. The vehicle will transport the same number of passengers as the old unit.

Persons interested can register at the high school or with Mrs. Maass prior to the organization date.

Amherst Area Fire Fighters Re-Organize

Policy Set, New Officers Elected By Village Force

AMHERST—Department policy and appointments were made Thursday at the re-organizational meeting Amherst Junction Volunteer Fire Department.

Fire Chief Edwin Carr reported that 27 village residents had signed up for the force. Its membership had dropped sharply during the past year. Thursday meeting was attended by 17 of the members.

Carr reported that although the village had not experienced a fire during the past year, the state fire bureau requested the department to reorganize.

$1.25 an Hour

Fire meetings will be on the first Thursday of each month rather than Mondays. Department members will receive $1.25 an hour for fighting fires.

Bruley, Ernest Bohm, Alex Pepinski and Sidney Leppen were named truck drivers and pumpmen. Pat Pitt, Harold Floistad and John Rekowski, laddersmen, and Norbert Glitz, Ted Konkol, Grant Lutz, Albert Pavelski and William Primz, hosemen.

Other members are Jule Lila, Joseph Migas, Emil Kostuck, Gary Carroll, and Carl Docka, office and conference room, a radio operator's room, offices for county traffic police and public facilities.

School board members agreed to join with New Holstein again this year to conduct night classes. They will be held at Chilton and New Holstein High schools as in the past two years. James Skarda, guidance director, will direct the local program.

The superintendent and high school and elementary school principals were authorized to attend fall professional conferences in Madison.

Superintendents will meet Sept. 23 and 24, high school principals on Sept. 29 and 30 and elementary principals will meet on Oct. 18 and 19.

Calumet Highway Chief to Resign

Arthur Schnell, Commissioner For 16 Years, Informs Board

CHILTON — Arthur Schnell, Calumet County highway commissioner for 16 years, told the Calumet County Board Tuesday of his intent to retire after the present term of office.

Board members set the starting salary for the new commissioner at $6,780. The position is filled by board appointment.

Supervisors also approved the appointment of Michael Ariens, Brillion, to replace Henry Horn on the County School Committee.

Board members authorized the transfer of $292 from the contingent fund to the county superintendent's account to cover the county's purchase of equipment from the office. When all supplies and equipment are sold and the account is balanced, any money left over will revert to Hilbert and Stockbridge, the two districts under the jurisdiction of the county superintendent. In case of deficit, the two districts would be assessed accordingly.

To Contact CESA Supervisors also authorized the education committee to contract with the Cooperative Education Service Agency, which replaced the superintendent's statewide on July 10, for someone to supervise the program of special education from Oct. 1 until June 30, 1966.

It was announced that Miss Hilda Cavanaugh, retired supervisory teacher from Manitowoc County, might be available for the position.

The cost to the county will be $640 to cover 16 supervisory visits which would be made to the schools.

Cost of the program after this year will be allocated to the school districts in the county.

F. J. Flanagan, past county superintendent, was hired to handle administration of the program through September.

Other Action

It was voted to spend $3,000 for furniture for the office annex of the Calumet County jail. Built on the northwest corner of the present jail, building will house a sheriff's office and conference room, a radio operator's room, offices for county traffic police and public facilities.

Supervisors Told County Airport Cost $4,069,255

$240,000 Over First Estimates

Total cost of the new Outagamie County Airport will be $4,069,255, the contracting firm of Ralph H. Burke, Inc., told Outagamie County Board of Supervisors Tuesday.

The total represents an increase of about $240,000 over engineers' original bid prices, due, a representative of the firm said, to unanticipated costs and the building of larger facilities than had been planned earlier.

The net cost to the county, after deduction of incomes including federal and state aids and sale of land at the old airport, will be $2,731,300. With a total of $2,555,000 in paid and outstanding bills, the county presently has a reserve of $294,500, including $67,500 from land sale at the old airport.

If the county were to build the proposed cross-wind runway without Federal Aviation Agency aid, the firm said, the $294,500 reserve would be needed, plus an additional $593,000, a total of $887,500.

Unanticipated Costs Included in the unanticipated costs are the Civil Aeronautics Board hearings, $37,112; legal fees for the appeal from the CAB ruling, $8,204, and construction of a temporary terminal building, $35,894.

The firm pointed out that the permanent terminal building cost a total of $313,000, compared with the earlier estimated cost of $232,200; primary land fees were expected to total $510,000, but came to $779,334, and cost of the hangar originally was set at $100,000, but cost a total of $194,823.

Other action by the county board Tuesday afternoon included:

Approval of an amendment in the county zoning ordinance to allow construction of a filling station and restaurant west of

Isolated in Upstairs Room

Native of Marion Describes Betsy

MARION — Four harrowing days of isolation while 12 persons rode out Hurricane Betsy's wrath in three upstairs rooms of a New Orleans home were described to relatives here by Mrs. Marion Zimmerman, a native of Marion.

Mrs. Zimmerman, the former Cora Brownell, told Mrs. Joseph Brandenberg Monday that she and her husband, her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Euguen Estopinol, and family, and several neighbors found refuge in the cramped quarters when the storm hit last Thursday. They emerged Monday, aghast by the destruction that surrounded them.

Mrs. Estopinol said none of their relatives or friends were missing but most of them lost everything they owned. Estopinol's sisters lost their new home and two business places in New Orleans.

From the upstairs windows they watched in horror as a mother with an infant in her arms accidentally dropped the infant's bottle. When she reached down groping for it, a tidal wave swept the tot from her arms.

The Estopinols packed all they could and moved it upstairs. She saved her piano, her husband's charts and maps, clothes and small items. However, the carpeting, electrical appliances and items they couldn't take upstairs were ruined.

All the trees on the property were gone and salt water was eating away at remaining plants and shrubbery.

Two Feet in Yard

The water had seeped from the house but was still two feet deep in the yards. Mrs. Estopinol said the water had been even higher in her parent's home.

Mrs. Estopinol said the task of cleanup lies ahead. Insurance covers the hurricane damage but not the flooding, she said.

Decision to Add 5 Patrolmen Postponed by County Board

Supervisors Vote to Wait for Report on Economic Situation

A decision on whether to add five patrolmen to the Outagamie County Traffic Patrol and expand the traffic and law enforcement coverage to 24 hours a day was postponed at the September meeting of the county board Tuesday morning when supervisors voted to hold over the decision until October, when a report will be considered on the economic status of proposed new squad vehicles.

The motion to expand the patrol by five men was entered by John Schreiter, chairman of the Courts, Justice and Enforcement Committee. The main opposition to the proposed resolution was voiced by Supv. Mark Catlin (App. 7th), who felt the board would be getting "the cart before the horse" if it approved the expanded traffic patrol and law enforcement staff before it decided on where money would come from to help defray the cost of the expansion.

$24,000 Extra in Salaries The postponed additions would cost the county $24,000 in salaries for the new men, with the total cost of equipment and salaries running to around $40,000. Catlin's opposition was that this represented too high a percentage of the county's total traffic and law enforcement budget — 20 to 25 per cent — compared with the effect the addition would have.

Sgt. Lowell Veitch of the county traffic department previously had said that only 2 per cent of the county's accidents occur in the hours which would be covered under the expanded patrol — 3 to 6 a.m.

Sgt. Veitch added that "you can't overpower the situation" with additional men, contending descriptions. Range of the six bids was $6,000 to $12,000. Original bidders will be asked to re-bid on the furniture.

He added, however, that if 24-hour protection is to be reached, staff additions must be made.

24 Hours Coverage

County Sheriff Calvin Spice also said a larger staff would be needed if 24-hour protection were desired. Spice said he knew of no counties of comparable size, road mileage and population as Outagamie that do not have 24-hour police coverage. A county of 100,000, Spice said, needs 24-hour protection.

The basic problem was whether to go ahead and allow the additional expense in the interest of public safety, as Supv. Eugene F. Kloes (App. 4th) advocated, or consider the expense first, as Catlin insisted be done.

New London Auxiliary Unit to Pick Officers

NEW LONDON — Election of officers will be held when the committee members, Joseph past presidents of the American Legion Auxiliary meet at the L. Jerome Zaig, made plans for J. Polaske home at 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

In other action the board: Heard and accepted a letter from Lee Penney on his resignation as director of the Outagamie-Appleton Civil Defense.

Approved transferring $12,000 from the contingent fund to the Foster Home account and Poor Relief and Wisconsin general accounts to provide for additional expenses needed in providing for county foster children at home in the area. The previous budget called for $7,000 per year and board members were told that next year's budget would probably require $24,000, due, according to County Court Judge Raymond Dohr, to an increased load in constant care cases.

Reject New London Library Furniture Bids

School Board Requests More Information On Equipment for $1.4 Million Structure

NEW LONDON — Bids on library equipment for the new senior high school were rejected Monday by the board of education.

The board felt the bids lacked clarification in some of the bid descriptions. Range of the six bids was $6,000 to $12,000. Original bidders will be asked to re-bid on the furniture.

Construction of the $1.4 million school is expected to be completed by the 1966-67 school term. Science laboratory equipment has been purchased for the building. Other areas requiring special equipment are being planned.

Board members will attend the fall board of education institute in Madison Oct. 16. The board decided to participate in the federal aid program which will be explained during the institute.

H James Ramsdell, superintendent, said the type of aid available under the federal program has not been clarified at this time.

Electrical Wiring Electrical wiring changes suggested by Armbruster Engineering, Appleton, consulting engineers for the school architect, were approved by the board. The changes will be made in the workshops at Washington High School.

The high school electrical system is undergoing a four-phase renovation project. About one-half of the project has been completed. Boehm Electric, Neenah, installed a master electrical panel board, primary underground service and electric vault alterations in December. King Electric, Waupaca, installed electrical panel boxes and put in new wiring during the second phase this summer. The home economics, vocational agriculture and industrial arts department were affected most by the work.

Study Handbooks Revised copies of the board of education policy handbooks were distributed. The board will study the handbook and then bring it up for discussion and adoption at the Oct. 11 meeting. The transfer of $11,469 from the school building fund of August 1964 to the New London National Bank was approved by the board.

In other action the board changed its policy on requiring bus drivers to have annual chest X-rays and physical examinations in every three years. The change concurs with state statutes.

F. J. Flanagan Tells Views at County Association Meeting

Return of Calumet Special Class To Districts Error, Says Educator

CHILTON — Returning the special class program for retarded children to individual school districts in Calumet County is a step in the wrong direction, F. J. Flanagan, former county superintendent of schools, told the county Association for Retarded Children at the high school Monday.

He said that the five high school districts were small, there would be insufficient grading, a big variance in ages and not enough psychological help for testing.

Flanagan outlined the progress in the county in the last 13 years. Originally trainable and educable children shared the same classroom, he said. At present there were 35 pupils in three classrooms. An educable class is located at Forest Junction and one at Chilton.

Trainable children were taught in half-day sessions at Train School east of Stockbridge.

"With children of all ages in the classroom, it is still not the best situation," he said. The teaching staff could be double, he contended.

"The county board hasn't taken steps for the future of these children. Perhaps I should have carried on a crusade, but I am opposed to that type of thing. I believe if it is presented in the proper light it should be enough. But perhaps the crusading type of zeal may be needed," he added.

Flanagan urged more activity and enthusiasm within the local chapter, noting that the 35 pupils had 70 parents and there were only 17 members at the meeting, many of whom did not have children in school.

Four Classes

Of the 8,000 children in the county 200 had been found to be retarded. He suggests there were more and if more were tested there probably could be four classes.

"You must carry on the fight," he said, asking them not to be too concerned about cost. He presented figures saying that institutionalized children cost from $2,500 to $3,500 a year, while those at home cost from $400-$600 per pupil a year,consin Industrial Commission.

Flanagan concluded that he was "a little fearful" that the education of the county's retarded may be a "going concern." He urged the cultivation of high school principals and school boards and cited retarded programs in other counties, organized by them, or cooperatively.

Districts Join

Flanagan said he was still in charge of the special classes until the end of October and didn't know what would happen after that. When asked for a solution for the forthcoming situation, he was non-committal, but suggested that it was not the little red school house type of education and perhaps some problems could be solved by districts going together.

He complimented the organization for its efforts in the proposed Day Care Center, in the basement of the Toth Nursing Home, Chilton, for pre-school age children, or those too old for special classes. It is still in its preliminary stages and awaiting the okay of the Wisconsin Industrial Commission.

North Central DC-3 Reportedly Struck Trees at Stevens Point

A North Central Airlines DC-3 representative was to arrive in Appleton today to investigate the accident and personnel from the Minneapolis office of North Central began arriving early after 11 p.m. Tuesday after an engine and other equipment were damaged in an approach just off the end of the runway at the Stevens Point airport, 60 miles northwest. No injuries were reported.

The Federal Aviation Agency control tower at Austin Straubel Field, Green Bay, called Appleton Fire Department at 11:07 p.m. to report that the craft was making an emergency landing here and possibly would be in need of fire-fighters' assistance. The plane had landed by the time firemen arrived some nine minutes later. Grand Chute firemen also were at the scene.

The left engine of the plane was damaged when the craft reportedly struck the tops of trees or brush while attempting to land at Stevens Point. Although landing gear apparently was not damaged, various flight instruments needed for landing were damaged. It was reported.

Diverted To East
With one engine out of operation and weather conditions poor, the flight was diverted to the east where weather was better. It was learned the pilot, Vern Lochu, elected to land at Appleton, the nearest airport with better weather. The FAA tower at Green Bay said fire units were alerted at Austin Straubel Field.

The twin engine plane carried a crew of three and five passengers.

The plane made a northwest to southeast approach on the runway and in landing, ran off the end of the runway, apparently because the brakes were damaged. A landing light at the end of the airport runway was damaged in the landing.

Fuel was leaking from the damaged engine when the plane landed, it was learned. Leaves and twigs protruded from the two engines with the left engine heavily packed with debris. The leading edges of both wings also were dented and there was damage to the undercarriage.

CAB to Investigate
Some of the passengers were taken to area motels and arrangements were made to get them to their destinations. Civil Aeronautics Board representatives are enrolling in school.

Calumet Reapportionment Plan Adopted by Supervisors

Action Taken Over Objections of Hilbert Supervisor Herman Greve

CHILTON—Calumet County's Civil Defense program and as reapportionment plan was adopted this morning by the county board of supervisors over the objections of Herman Greve, Village of Hilbert supervisor.

A special session was required to enact the reapportionment ordinance when Greve blocked action at Tuesday's regular session. When unanimous consent was requested so that the supervisors could vote after the first reading, Greve objected.

Rather than hold the measure over to the October meeting, today's session was called. The vote was 17-4 in favor of the plan that reduces the board's membership from 24 to 16 supervisors.

Immediate Action
Many members felt that immediate action was necessary. The October meeting was too near the Nov. 1 deadline for having reapportionment complete, they claimed.

Greve, during earlier reapportionment discussion, had stated that he felt Hilbert should not be left without its own supervisor. Under provisions of the ordinance, it will be combined with the Town of Woodville.

After the vote Greve asked to be "excused from" his duties as radio officer for the county's repairman for the sheriff department radio network. He said he "left the village down." The board took no action on his requests.

Unchanged Districts
According to terms of the proposed resolution, unchanged districts would be towns of Brillinn, Brothertown, Charles-town, Chilton, Rantoul and Appleton's 9th Ward.

Districts losing supervisors are Chilton City, going from four to two; New Holstein City, going from four to two; and Brillinn City, going from three to one.

The Town of Harrison will gain a supervisor making a total of two. Combined districts with one supervisor each will be the Town of Woodville-Village of Hilbert, town and village of Stockbridge, and the Town of New Holstein and Kiel's Calumet County precinct.

Under this plan each supervisor would represent as nearly as possible 1,400 persons adhering to the one man one vote sor. The plan was one of three drawn up by a special committee appointed by board chairman L. H. Huijbregtse and headed by G. J. Hipke.

Funeral Rites For Seymour Women Set

Both were members of St. John Catholic Church where funeral services will be held. Both will be buried in the parish cemetery.

Services for Mrs. Hauch will be at 3 p.m. Friday. Friends may call at the Muehl Funeral Home after 2 p.m. Thursday until the time of service Friday.

Crashed Through Panel
Services for Mrs. Nickodem will be at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Tipsy Driver Fined $125

Oshkosh Man Gets Choice of Paying Or 15-Day Jail Term

OSHKOSH — William J. Nitke, 22, 1435 Monroe St., Oshkosh, was fined $125 and costs or 45 days in jail after he pleaded no contest to a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicants when arraigned by state police at 12:20 a.m. Monday after he allegedly forced a state patrol car off the road on U. S. 45.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 2 p.m. Friday. She is survived by her husband, a son and a daughter.

The two women drowned when the car driven by Mrs. Nickodem crashed through a five-inch concrete panel on the fourth floor on the municipal parking ramp adjacent to the Fox River.

Fire Department divers pulled the bodies from the back seat of the auto which was upside down in about 10 feet of water.

The two women had come to Green Bay with Mrs. Charles Freund, also of Seymour, who was waiting for them to join her for a luncheon engagement at a nearby hotel.

Sank in Muck
She had left the car earlier to shop at a nearby jewelry store.

The roof of the car had sunk several inches in the mucky bottom of the river. The wheels were about three feet below the surface of the water.

County Airport Total Cost at $4,079,255

Oppose Annexation
A resolution sent to the chairman of the Town of Menasha that Outagamie County prefers no annexation of parts of the town to the City of Menasha in the University of Wisconsin-Fox Valley Center area. Approval of sale of about 3 1/2 acres on U.S. 10 in the Town of Grand Chute to Chester DeNoble for $32,500. Supv. Eugene Kloes (Appleton, 4th) preferred to wait on the sale since the property had previously been opened to bids and none had been received. Kloes felt that selling the land to a private buyer "after the sale is over" should not have been done.

Approved a motion by the Civil Defense committee that County-City Director Lee E. Penney be retained on a part-time basis after the Sept. 30 effective date of his resignation and that the committee advise for and interview applicants. Approved county aid of $7,000 for construction on the Lambie and $1,600 for the George Jeske bridge in the Town of Liberty.
